Quarterly Inspection of the Kidderpore Dock Works.

EIGHTH REPORT.

Calcutta, the 26th April 1889.

From—MESSRS. H. CLOËTE and W. CONNAN,
To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Public Works Department.

WE have the honour to report that in accordance with the instructions contained in Government of Bengal's letter No. 881M., dated 22nd instant, we this day made the Eighth Quarterly Inspection of the works at the Kidderpore Docks as shewn in the progress reports submitted by the Engineer to the Port Trust.

Copies of the index plan and of the tabular statement showing works done during the quarter under report, and the total quantity of work executed from the commencement of the Dock Works, which have been prepared by the Engineer to the Port Trust in charge of the works, are with Government.

PERMANENT WORKS.

Sixty-feet Lock.—The founding of the portions of the walls which at the end of last quarter remained to be done was almost completed. Good progress has been made in the erection of the inner gates.

Two hundred and thirty-two thousand three hundred and sixty-five cubic feet of masonry were executed on this part of the work, and about 7¾ lakhs of cubic feet of earthwork were removed.

Eighty-feet Entrance—The laying of the foundations to half width of the walls all round this portion of the works was completed, and these walls were built up to level of bottom of open cutting. In doing this 240,908 cubic feet of masonry were put in, and by the removal of over 2¾ lakhs of cubic feet of spoil the excavation of the earth in the centre was nearly completed.

Tidal Basin.—The laying of the foundations of all that portion of the quay wall that could be taken in hand was done, and 110,121 cubic feet of masonry put in, and about 220,000 cubic feet of earthwork were removed. The foundations of the remaining length of quay walls cannot be taken in hand till the 80-feet entrance and graving dock are further advanced.

Graving Dock.—Good progress was made in the work of putting in the foundations of this part of the work. About 685,745 cubic feet of earth were removed, and 236,806 cubic feet of masonry were executed.

Double Entrance.—This work was well pushed on during the quarter, 29,820 spoil feet of foundations were laid, over 10¼ lakhs of cubic feet of soil were removed, and 442,528 cubic feet of masonry built.

Dock No. 1.—A quantity of over 67$\frac{1}{2}$ lakhs of cubic feet of earth was removed from inside the dock and 111,233 cubic feet of masonry in quay walls were put in. A very small proportion of the work in the quay walls now remains to be done, and this must wait till the double entrance and bridge to Dock No. 2 are more advanced.

Boat Canal.—The foundations of the Lift Lock and of the bridge on the crossing of the Diamond Harbour Road over the canal were completed. The laying of the foundations of the bridge for the Tallygunge Road and for the Syphon culvert were pushed on, but great difficulties were encountered in these places owing to the nature of the soil and quantity of water met with. In this work over 26 lakhs of cubic feet of earth were removed, and 184,642 cubic feet of masonry laid.

Expenditure.—The total expenditure up to the end of the quarter under review was reported to be Rs. 1,33,24,378, of which Rs. 1,07,53,989 were reported on works, and Rs. 25,70,389 on account of land.

Sanitary.—The average number of workpeople employed was 11,440, being about 2,460 more than were at work during the previous quarter. Among the persons employed there were 21 deaths reported, which gives a death-rate of only 22·54 per thousand per annum.

General Remarks.—We are of opinion that very good progress has been made with the Dock Works during the quarter under report, and that, so far as we have been able to judge from our inspection, the character of the works is very satisfactory.

Bills of the Bengal Council.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

The following Report of Select Committee, together with the Bill as amended by them is, by order of the President, published for general information :—

REPORT OF SELECT COMMITTEE.

1. We, the Committee appointed to consider the Bill "to provide for the appointment of a Muhammadan Burial Board in Calcutta," beg to submit the following report :—

2. We have amended the definition of a "Public Muhammadan burial ground" so as to make it correspond more accurately with the cemeteries which it is proposed to place under the Board.

3. We have introduced into the Act provisions to safeguard the legitimate interests of those persons other than Muhammadans who have hitherto buried their dead in Muhammadan cemeteries. We learn that in some cemeteries a portion is set apart for the interment of low-caste Hindoos: in other cemeteries Hindoos sometimes bury without apparently any right to do so in all parts of the cemetery. The Muhammadan Board will, we are of opinion, be fully justified in prohibiting this in future, but such portions of cemeteries as have been set apart for Hindoos ought, we think, to be reserved for their future use. We are informed by our colleague, Prince Furrokh Shah, that no Muhammadan Board would consent to undertake the superintendence of these portions. We have therefore in section 6 provided for their exclusion from the jurisdiction of the Board, vesting the Executive Government with the power of defining what these portions are. One of the cemeteries enumerated in the Schedule, i.e., No. 5, Chota Gobra Gorastan, we have altogether omitted, having ascertained that it was exclusively set apart for Hindoos.

4. We think, however, that the opportunity ought not to be lost of making due provision for the superintendence of the excluded portions. We have therefore arranged to place them under a Board consisting of the three officers enumerated in section 4, and to vest this Board with the same power of making rules for the regulation of interments in these portions as the Muhammadan Board will have in the Muhammadan cemeteries. It is probable that the practical effect of this will be to bring these burying grounds under substantially the same Code of rules as the larger and more important Muhammadan cemeteries. We have also modified the title of the Bill so as to comprehend this object.

5. We have added a section definitely enabling the Board to purchase or acquire land for the extension of any burial ground under its charge, or for forming a new public burial ground.

The title of the Act should be altered so as to correspond with the extended scope of the Bill.

MAHENDRA LAL SIRCAR.

I DECLINE to sign the report. The Bill introduced into the Council was for the appointment of a Muhammadan Burial Board. It is not competent to a Committee, to which that Bill was referred, to substitute for it a totally different Bill as has been done. The title of the Bill has been changed without authority, and matters altogether outside the burial of Muhammadans have been added.

A Bill to provide for the appointment of a Muhammadan Burial Board in Calcutta, and to make better provision for the interment of persons other than Christians or Muhammadans.

12. The Board may, from time to time, appoint all such overseers, clerks, subordinate officers and servants as they shall think necessary and proper to assist in carrying out the purposes of this Act; and may, from time to time, remove any of such persons and appoint others in their place.

Board may appoint subordinate establishment.

13. The Board may, with the sanction of the Local Government, from time to time, make such rules consistent with the purposes of this Act as they think necessary for any of the following purposes; that is to say—

(3) All rules so made, and variations, alterations, or revocations of rules, shall be published in the Calcutta Gazette.

14. The Local Government may constitute the three members of the Board enumerated in section four, a Board for the superintendence, management or control of public burial-grounds used for the interment of persons other than Christians or Muhammadans, and may place under the Board the Chota Gobra Gorastan specified in the Second Schedule as well as such portions of public Muhammadan burial-grounds as may be excluded from the control of the Muhammadan Burial Board under section six, and any other similar burial-grounds which the Local Government may from time to time think it expedient to place under the Board, and the Board so constituted shall exercise the same powers with regard to such burial-grounds as are vested in the Muhammadan Burial Board by sections eleven, twelve and thirteen of this Act.

May, 17th	359	12mo ...	1st ...	2,000	Printed	1 8 0	......	In this work Babu Bankim Chandra Chatterji gives an elaborate account of the doctrines of the Hindu revivalists. The object of all religion, he says, is culture, i.e. the full and harmonious development of all the faculties of man, physical, intellectual, moral, and æsthetic. and no religion gives such facilities for a full and harmonious development as the religion taught in the Bhagabadgita. By bhakti he means the devotion of the fully developed faculties to the service of God.	7763

May, 31st	96	8vo ...	1st ...	500	ditto ...	......	ditto ...	This is an amplification of a much more difficult and abstruse work entitled Advaita Siddhi by the preceptor of the preceptor of the author. It aims at a reconciliation of the various systems of Hindu philosophy by rejecting those portions of them which are opposed to the Vedas and at the establishment of the non-duality of Brahma. The Editor has appended some very valuable notes for the elucidation of difficult passages in the work.	825
May, 8th	96	8vo ...	1st ...	500	ditto ...	0 6 0	Asiatic Society of Bengal, 57, Park Street, Calcutta.	There are various different schools founded on various bháshyas of the Vedanta philosophy. The schools are called Prasthánas. Samkar's school is called the Advaita or the non-dual school. Ballabhácháryya, who has a very large number of followers in the Bombay Presidency, founded what is called the Dvaitádvaita school, dual under certain conditions and non-dual under others. His commentary on the Vedanta philosophy is called the Anubhashyam.	826

EMIGRANTS' SANITATION BILL.

The HON'BLE MR. NOLAN presented the report of the Select Committee on the Bill to provide for the sanitation of emigrants during their passage through Bengal to the labour districts in Assam, and moved that the Bill be considered.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The HON'BLE MR. NOLAN also moved that the Bill be passed.

The HON'BLE MR. MOORE said:—"The main interests affected by this Bill are the interests of those connected with Tea, and I should like quite briefly to give their views about it. Before the Select Committee met, I discussed it with the leading representatives of the Indian Tea Association, and of the Chamber of Commerce to which the Association is affiliated. The purport of the Bill was approved by both bodies, and they had no suggestions to offer for its improvement. Its measure of usefulness will depend upon the rules framed under it, and I trust great care will be taken to confine them to the strict purport of the Bill, and not to go beyond it. In this connexion in Select Committee I proposed the elimination of clause (j), section 3 of the Bill, as I considered the wording was so general as to admit of the introduction of the system of way-bills, which would seriously hamper free recruiting by garden sirdars. No restriction would be considered too severe to suppress the various villainies and illegitimate recruiting practised by arkatties, but it is an almost insurmountable difficulty to keep them in check by rules which would not seriously interfere with legitimate free recruiting by garden sirdars, which it is only desired to encourage. On my proposing the elimination of the clause, the legal authority in the Committee showed that there were legal technicalities necessitating its retention, and the mover of the Bill gave me an assurance that there was no intention of imposing the way-bill system. I therefore withdrew my proposal, and I only raise the point now to say it would be satisfactory if that assurance could be repeated here. I have also to ask whether the Government will agree to publish its proposed rules before making them law, to give those interested in Tea an opportunity of expressing an opinion upon them. As both they and the Government have but one object in common, viz., the preservation of labourers from mortality by preventible disease, it seems to me that that course has everything to recommend it, and nothing to the contrary. I would add that, just before coming here to-day, a paper was sent to me by the Tea Association, pointing out that one most essential point was the prevention of overcrowding in railway carriages. The paper consists of two Minutes on the subject by Tea Agency Firms which I will read—

'(1). As regards the supervision and sanitation of free emigrants en route to the labour districts, some legislation is undoubtedly wanted, and I think that in this connexion we should call the attention of Government to what I consider to be at present the worst feature of the journey, viz., overcrowding in railways, which in the months of April to June is simply cruel.

'(2). The crowding in the railways is one of the worst features of the coolies' journey, and the railways are allowed to act as if they had absolutely no responsibilities towards emigrants, nor do they seem to be required to make any of the ordinary provisions of accommodation accorded to the third-class passengers either in the trains or at the stations.'

"The point is not specially named in the Bill, but no doubt could and will be brought in under clause (e). I have nothing further to say than to express the hope that the Council will pass this Bill, and to thank the Government for their promptitude and decision regarding it from the time it was placed in their hands."

The Hon'ble MR. NOLAN said:—"You, Sir, will have heard, we all heard, with satisfaction the approval of this measure expressed by the hon'ble member who represents among us the views and interests of the mercantile community. Seeing that the immediate consequence of the Bill will be to subject to supervision persons engaged in supplying labour for a great industry, to impose new duties on them, and render them liable to charges, it is most satisfactory to learn, from the hon'ble member's statement, that our proceedings are endorsed by those who would be the first to resist any action of the kind if it were not necessary and beneficial. In regard to what he has said in deprecation of requiring agents to make out way-bills, you, Sir, will be in a better position than I to give a satisfactory answer as to the future intentions of Government, but I may say that had the requisition of way-bills been contemplated, the Bill would have been differently drafted, so as to indicate that important fact clearly. I doubt if it is really possible to secure the use of way-bills for unregistered emigrants; although, where it is practicable, the system is very useful.

"The support which the measure has received from those most concerned diminishes to some extent the practical importance of an objection taken to it by an experienced journalist that it merely empowers the Lieutenant-Governor to make rules at discretion without clearly defining the character of those rules. It may, perhaps, be convenient to explain, in reply to this observation, that the Bill fixes the responsibility for protecting the health of emigrants on particular persons, it specifies the points on which their conduct shall be subject to control, and assigns a limit to the penalties to be imposed upon them in case of neglect: if it leaves to the Executive the power to specify the actual arrangements to be made on the journey, that is done solely for the sake of convenience. I have a draft of the rules to be issued on the table before me, it was read to the Select Committee, and any portion of it could, had that body so pleased, have been transferred to the Bill. But who would be a gainer by such transfer? Take, for instance, rule 9 of the draft, which runs—

'The agent, or person appointed as aforesaid, must take every care of the emigrants during the journey. He must give them a cooked meal before they start; and if the journey is likely to occupy more than six hours, he must distribute biscuits and sugar in the proportion of two biscuits and one ounce of sugar to each emigrant of and above ten years of age, and one biscuit and half an ounce of sugar to each emigrant under the age of ten years; and if more than eight hours, dry provisions must be supplied, such as choora, sutto, and the like, in such quantity as may be determined by the Superintendent of Emigration or other authorised officer. It must be seen that the clothing provided is worn by the emigrants whenever the weather renders such a precaution necessary. At the close of every day's march, or of a train journey, the emigrants must be properly housed and provided with a cooked meal and wholesome supply of water for drinking and ablution purposes.'

"That is the regulation now in force under Act I of 1882, and it answers very well as a rule; but who would care to put it on our statute book? In dealing with these details, rules are far more convenient than laws, as they are more easily altered on objection, or when they do not work well. In fact, the procedure of leaving the widest discretion to the Executive is incorporated in the present emigration law, to which our Bill is supplementary, it was adopted in the previous law, and as far as I can ascertain in all the numerous emigration laws and abortive Bills as to emigration which have ever been passed or rejected by the Indian legislature. It also prevails to some extent in regard to arrangements made for the protection of the health of persons who are not emigrants; for instance the hon'ble member opposite, who is Chairman of the Calcutta Municipality, could inform you that here in this town we are all liable to be bound by such sanitary rules as may commend themselves to the body over which he presides.

"The criticism to which I have referred touches a matter of form only, important, no doubt, on general grounds, but having no very special application to the present measure: if we can guard effectually the health of emigrants, it is of no great consequence to them whether this is done by law or by rules having the force of law. But I am aware that the Bill has given rise to a genuine feeling of disappointment among a section of the public by reason of its limited scope: it deals very well, they say, with sanitary matters, but we want very much more than that. In illustration of what I mean, I may, perhaps, quote from a journal published in the recruiting districts: "Though Sir Steuart Bayley correctly describes some, though not all, the evils of that Act, no effort whatsoever has been made in the Bill just introduced to grapple with these evils with a view to their remedy, the only measure contemplated by the Bill being certain sanitary precautions to be observed during the passage of the coolies to the land of slavery. The system of kidnapping which has grown up under Act I of 1882, and to which Sir Steuart Bayley himself in some of his published Resolutions on the administration of the different districts of Bengal made pointed reference, is not even attempted to be touched. The Bill, as at present framed, will not satisfy the public." As far as our Council is concerned, the reply to this objection is simple and obvious: we have only to state a fact, with which our critics may not be acquainted, to dispose of the matter at once. We have not altered Act I of 1882, because we have not the power to do so: that Act was passed by a superior Legislature, and by that Legislature only can it be amended. We do what we can, as well as we can, and as quickly as we can; for what lies outside our province we can only disclaim responsibility. But in thus indicating the limits of our jurisdiction, I must not be understood to concede that the whole question of emigration and statutory contracts could have been dealt with effectually by any other authority during the present season. The tea industry of Assam has been established by an outlay estimated at fifteen millions sterling: it has settled in that province an immigrant population of 323,000 persons, and 36,000 new recruits leave Bengal every year, attracted solely by the employment which it affords. It has contributed more, perhaps, than any other known factor to the solution of the great problem, how is India to find occupation for a population increasing rapidly? It is thus a most important industry, and, resting as it does on the basis of labour obtained from a great distance, under a peculiar system of statutory contracts, it is an industry of a very special kind. The grounds for action have only recently been established even from the Bengal point of view, and there are others to be consulted—persons who have every right to speak. This is, I submit, a case, if there ever was one, for caution, for deliberation, for the application of the maxim addressed to the ideal English statesman:

'Not quick, or slow to change, but firm,
And in its season bring the law.'

"But, it has been said, we might have expedited matters had we refused to remedy by this Bill immediate and glaring evils until the question could have been dealt with as a whole. As I have read in some journal, we may, by giving an instalment of reform, defer the revision of the whole Act, and thereby do evil; in other words, we should have left the foul wells to do their work a little longer, in order to make the situation intolerable and to bring pressure to bear. This, Mr. President, is, I submit, a suggestion which bears its condemnation stamped in broad characters on its forehead. Even the most cynical controversialist would hardly, on consideration, adopt it with all its consequences: he would scarcely venture to say in plain language to our 36,000 emigrants: "Sicken yourselves again at the contaminated tanks, your illness will help my argument; spread cholera throughout the land, its progress will give point to my declamation; die, and strengthen my case against Act I of 1882." Such a policy can be stated only to be condemned; and its rejection is a sufficient justification for passing the Bill now submitted to the judgment of this Council."

THE HON'BLE THE PRESIDENT said:—"Before I put to the Council the motion which stands on the paper, I wish to add one or two words in reply to my hon'ble friend who first spoke. He desired to know what the intentions of the Government were with regard to the introduction of way-bills under the rules, and, as I understood, he asked for some sort of pledge, as far as it could be given, that they were not to be introduced. The correct answer has been given by the Hon'ble Mr. Nolan in regard to these way-bills, namely, that we cannot introduce them. If I were to speak merely for myself, I might say that the same conditions which required way-bills in the case of coolies who have been registered and are sent up by garden sirdars would equally demand way-bills in the case of coolies who have not been registered and have been sent up by garden sirdars. But the fact of registration makes all the difference. In the one case you have the means of making out a way-bill, in the other you have not the means. I mentioned the matter in discussing this question with the member of the Government of India in charge of the case, and we came to the conclusion that way-bills, though admirable in themselves, could not be introduced under this Bill. Therefore, I may say most distinctly and definitely that, as this Bill stands, there is no intention of introducing way-bills. But as to what may be done hereafter I can give no pledge, because, as I have explained, it is my firm hope and trust that this Bill is merely a temporary measure. It is a Bill by means of which we expect to deal with a difficulty which has arisen pending a more complete and better consideration of the question in various aspects which this Council is not in a position to deal with; and whether, when the occasion comes for the amendment of Act I of 1882, I shall recommend, or whether the Government of India will accept such recommendation as the introduction of way-bills, as in the case of garden sirdars, is a question regarding which it is more than I can give a shadow of a pledge at present. So far on the question of way-bills.

"One other point my hon'ble friend asks above is as to the publication of the rules. It is our object to get the rules into force at the earliest possible moment. Here they are drafted, though not possibly in their final form. I shall ask the Hon'ble Mr. Nolan to submit them informally to-day to those who are chiefly interested, and to ask them to give us their opinions within a week, and I shall delay the publication of them in the meantime, if that will satisfy my hon'ble friend, Mr. Moore.

"In regard to the overcrowding of railways, my hon'ble friend on the right (Mr. Nolan) has explained, I think, quite as clearly as I can, what has been done. One of the most serious evils to which objection has been taken is the overcrowding in the railways, and I think it is an objection which is perfectly justified. A Conference was held not very long ago at which the Government in the Sanitary Department and the Managers of the Railways were represented, and certain rules were agreed to. Those rules it is within my power to enforce on the Eastern Bengal Railway, and they will be strictly enforced, and I have no doubt I shall have no difficulty in the matter, and steps have already been taken to introduce them on the East Indian Railway. Although I have no doubt that, under this Bill as drafted, we could pass rules which will have the force of law, and can insist on the management of the East Indian Railway carrying them out, at the same time as they have willingly come forward and agreed to what is required, I shall be unwilling to make any rules on the subject unless I see any real necessity for it. I think I have now answered all the questions which the hon'ble member has asked."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

ADJOURNMENT OF COUNCIL.

THE HON'BLE THE PRESIDENT said:—" There is one word more to say before the Council rises. Of the other Bills which are before the Council, I understand the Select Committee has decided to postpone until the next cold weather the consideration of the Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to the Port of Calcutta, and to the appointment of Commissioners for the said Port. They do not propose to go on with it at present. There are two Bills on which the reports of the Select Committee are practically ready—the Muhammadan Burial Board's Bill and the Fisheries Bill. With regard to another Bill—the Police Superannuation Bill—there are certain points with regard to which I have to consult with the Government of India before proceeding; but in respect of the two Bills of which the reports are practically ready—the Burial Board's and the Fisheries Bill—I propose that the Select Committee's reports be circulated to members at the earliest possible date. I myself shall not be here on the 4th of May, which is the earliest date on which the Council could receive the reports and consider them. I do not think it is worth asking the Council to meet merely for the sake of receiving the reports. But I propose that the Council shall meet on the 11th, and then take into consideration the reports which you will have by that time had in your hands for more than a week."

The Council adjourned to Saturday, the 11th May, 1889.

Assistant Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal,
Legislative Department.

RULES FOR THE REGULATION OF APPOINTMENTS IN THE SECRETARIAT CLERICAL SERVICE OF THE GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL AND ATTACHED OFFICES.

APPOINTMENT DEPARTMENT.

Dated 16*th March* 1889.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

Two notes by Mr. H. H. Risley, dated the 10th May 1888 and the 31st January 1889, on the question of recruiting clerical appointments in the Bengal Secretariat and other offices at the head-quarters of the Government of Bengal by competitive examination, and of extending that system to similar appointments in district offices.

Read again—

Home Department Notification No. 1817, dated 3rd July 1888, publishing rules for the regulation of appointments in the Secretariat Clerical Service of the Government of India and attached offices.

The question of raising the standard of educational attainments required from candidates for clerical appointments in the Bengal Secretariat, and in other offices at the head-quarters of the Government of Bengal, has been under discussion at intervals since 1883, when the Government of India first invited the Government of Bengal to consider whether the rules laid down for the regulation of appointments in the Secretariat Clerical Service of the Government of India and its attached offices might not be made applicable to similar appointments in Bengal. In June 1883 a Committee of Secretaries and Heads of Departments was appointed by Sir Rivers Thompson to enquire into and report upon the subject. This Committee reported that there appeared to them to be no objection to the adoption of the rules, provided—

I—That the scheme should not affect persons then in the offices who were considered fit for promotion from the lower to the upper division.

II—That appointments in the upper division should comprise all those with a salary of Rs. 100 and upwards, instead of Rs. 200 and upwards, as is the case in the Government of India.

III—That a probationer found incompetent need not be retained for a whole year.

IV—That the names of passed candidates should be placed on one general list, and that declining a particular appointment should not entail the removal of a candidate's name.

2. The Committee's proposal to draw up a scheme modifying the Government of India's system in these particulars was generally approved by Sir Rivers Thompson, who appears however to have been of opinion that the number of vacancies available for competition would be very small, and that in order to avoid disappointing the reasonable expectations of successful candidates, it would be as well to provide that, till the passed candidates were absorbed, there should be no necessity for recurring examinations.

3. Correspondence then commenced with the object of collecting statistics in order to ascertain how many appointments would on an average be available for disposal by examination. In the course of this correspondence certain further objections were raised to the rules for the examination, and for regulating promotion from the lower to the upper division of the offices, and it became evident that the difficulties of adopting the Government of India's system, as it then stood, were in some respects greater than the Committee of 1883 had anticipated. For these reasons, Sir Rivers Thompson was compelled to hold in abeyance the scheme for giving immediate effect to the proposals of that Committee, and the papers relating to the subject were sent to the Salaries Commission for consideration in the expectation that their enquiries would enable them to suggest some means of raising the educational standard demanded of clerks in the offices at head-quarters without either injuring the prospects of existing incumbents or disappointing the expectations of candidates who might become eligible for appointments by examination.

4. The views of the Salaries Commission are contained in paragraphs 294 and 295 of their report. The conclusion which they came to differs little from that arrived at by Sir Rivers Thompson three years before. Owing, however, to the many important administrative proposals which were made in their report, the Resolution reviewing it did not appear until the 1st April 1887, and their recommendations regarding the extension of the system of competitive examination were even then not finally disposed of, but were transferred for consideration to the Judicial Department, which was then in correspondence regarding it with the Government of India. The matter was first brought to Sir Steuart Bayley's notice in connection with the larger question of enquiring into, and if possible revising, the working of the Bengal Secretariat, and in referring it to Mr. Risley, the officer appointed in the Judicial Department's Resolution of 17th April 1888, to conduct that enquiry he was instructed to consider the possibility of framing a scheme which should not be open to the objections taken to the system of the Government of India as it stood in 1883. In Mr. Risley's note of the 10th May 1888 the attempt is made to devise a method of filling appointments in the Secretariat by selection based upon the qualifications of the candidates as ascertained and recorded in the examinations held by the Calcutta University. While this proposal was still under the Lieutenant-Governor's consideration, the Government of India published a revised code of rules for examination, and Mr. Risley was therefore directed to examine these and to enquire how far they were applicable to clerical appointments under the Government of Bengal. It appears from Mr. Risley's second note, dated the 31st January 1889, that the rules for regulating appointments in the Secretariats of the Government of India as now amended completely dispose of the objections which have been raised to the extension of the scheme to the Bengal Secretariat and similar offices under the Government of Bengal. The following are the chief points which have to be considered.

5. The principle of breaking up the establishment of a large office into two divisions, and recruiting these divisions separately with reference to the nature of the work with which they are concerned, has been accepted in English public departments for some years past. Although no similar division has as yet been formally introduced into the Bengal Secretariat, the actual practice in dealing with vacancies in the higher grades of the office has all along been based upon the recognition of the fact that in an office recruited mainly by the admission of apprentices a certain proportion of the clerks will only be fit for routine work, and cannot be employed on the more difficult operations connected with the disposal of correspondence. It has at no time been admitted that subordinate appointments in the Secretariat form a sort of service the members of which can claim that vacancies in the upper grades shall be filled exclusively by promotion from the lower grades, and that outsiders shall only be appointed under very exceptional circumstances. So far from this being the case, the rules which have been in force for some years past in the Judicial, Political and Appointment Departments of the Secretariat restrict the promotion of clerks employed on routine duties within very narrow limits, and give a large and indefinite discretion as regards the appointment of outsiders. After carefully considering the effect of the rules promulgated with the Home Department notification already referred to, the Lieutenant-Governor is satisfied that their application to the Secretariat and other offices at head-quarters will not injuriously affect the prospects of the clerks now serving in those offices who were selected under the old system of filling vacancies by the promotion of apprentices or by appointments made without reference to the educational qualifications of the candidates. Clerks now serving in the lower division who can give satisfactory evidence that they possess educational qualifications equivalent to the First Arts standard of one of the Indian Universities will be held eligible for promotion to the upper division, irrespective of the rule restricting the occasions on which such promotions can be made to every alternate vacancy. The substitution of distinct rules for the varying and uncertain practice which now regulates promotion in these offices may further be expected to attract to the clerical service of Government a more highly educated class of men than is secured under the present system.

6. The Lieutenant-Governor agrees with the Committee of 1883 in thinking that, in the case of the Bengal Secretariat, the upper division should comprise all appointments the pay (or in the case of appointments carrying progressive pay, the minimum pay) of which is Rs. 100 and upwards. It is true that a different line of demarcation is adopted in offices under the Government of India, but it does not appear that this need form a conclusive objection to the Government of Bengal joining in the system of examination now carried on under the orders of the Home Dêpartment. It is clearly impossible for the Bengal Government to adopt the line of demarcation recognised by the Government of India without unduly reducing the number of appointments in the upper division, and accepting a lower standard of qualification for work which ought to be reserved for the more highly educated clerks of the upper division. Even if the Government of India were prepared to modify their line of division so as to make it correspond with that adopted by the Government of Bengal, the comparative attractions of the two services would not be equalised thereby for the pay and prospects of clerks employed in the offices under the Government of India are better than those of clerks serving under the Government of Bengal. On the other hand, it seems possible that the knowledge that they will not be required to serve outside their own Province may in some cases induce natives of Bengal to prefer an appointment on smaller pay in Calcutta to one on larger pay with the liability to spend a portion of the year in Simla. In any case it is clear that nothing would be gained by holding a separate examination for Bengal appointments, while that arrangement would certainly involve an amount of expenditure disproportionate to the object in view.

7. It has already been stated that the Government of India's rules as now amended render it possible to do ample justice to clerks already serving in the lower division. The question whether in any particular office it is possible in practice to fill every alternate vacancy by promotion from the lower division is one which will have to be carefully considered in each case with reference to the educational qualifications and proved ability of the clerks concerned. These considerations have hitherto been invariably taken into account in deciding whether a particular vacancy was to be filled by promotion within the office or by the appointment of an outsider, and it does not follow that the introduction of the new rules will make it possible to dispense with precautions which are peculiarly necessary where the lower division has been recruited mainly by the admission of apprentices. In the case of the Secretariat it seems to the Lieutenant-Governor that no clerk should be promoted from the lower to the upper division unless he is fully qualified to deal with the higher branches of correspondence work. To this latter proviso an exception may be made in favour of clerks working in the Reference Branch, as it is desirable to hold out special encouragement to proficiency in this important branch of office business.

8. As regards offices other than the Secretariat, it seems to the Lieutenant-Governor that the amended rules equally meet the objections raised by the Board in their letter No. 782A, dated 4th September 1884, to the extension of the Government of India's system to their office. The present system, in fact, differs in many material particulars from the scheme to which the Board then took exception, and leaves them in some respects a wider discretion as regards the appointment of outsiders than they proposed in that letter to reserve to themselves. A point to be specially noticed is that the rules, as they now stand, render it possible to maintain the existing system of apprentices on a somewhat reduced scale, and thus avoid the main difficulty on which the Board laid stress. The allotment of every third vacancy to registered apprentices would make it easy to absorb the existing apprentices within a reasonable time, while by rendering their prospects more certain it would probably induce men of higher qualifications to enter as apprentices. It may be added that the rules also allow heads of offices to appoint, otherwise than by competition, domiciled European and Eurasian clerks—an element which should not be allowed to disappear entirely from the public offices. The proviso requiring a minimum qualification of the Entrance Examination for the lower and the First Arts for the upper division ought not to exclude these men, while the knowledge that a substantial proportion of appointments are withdrawn from competition and reserved for distribution among persons who can show a certain minimum educational qualification may probably encourage them to pay more attention to the education of their sons than they have hitherto done. The rules might also be used to bring

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

* Mean of 6 days.

Explanation.—Summary.—The normal means of air pressure and temperature are the arithmetical average or means of the reading during the same period for the last ten ye[illegible]

The humidity of the atmosphere is expressed at percentage, saturated air being presented by 100. A clear sky is denoted by 0 and an overcast sky by 10. The num[illegible] are the numerical means or average of the rainfall in that district determined from the returns sent in by the sub-divisional station for the period in question during the past[illegible] stations in the district sending in returns divided by the number of stations. A rainy day is one on which at least undredth of an inch fall.

CALCUTTA, the 30*th April* 1889.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING FRIDAY, THE 26TH APRIL 1889.

AT the close of the previous week conditions were fairly normal for the period, but on the morning of the 20th a rapid fall of pressure had taken place over Bengal, while over the remainder of Northern India pressure was rising. A feeble low-pressure area was therefore formed over the province, and conditions became slightly disturbed, but beyond giving a few local storms in East Bengal which were accompanied by light rain only, and a rather general series of disturbances in the districts of North Bengal near the hills which were accompanied by heavy rain, the depression caused no changes of importance. On the 21st a further very rapid fall of pressure took place over Bengal, which rather intensified the depression, but the local storms caused by the disturbance were less numerous on this day than on the 20th From the 22nd pressure commenced to rise, the increase being at first slow ; but on the 23rd and 24th it was very rapid, and the distribution of pressure entirely changed, and pressure became decidedly high over North-Eastern and Central India, and to a certain extent over Bengal also. With the change in the distribution of pressure the strong southerly winds which had been blowing at the head of the Bay commenced to fall off in force, and on the 24th north-westerly winds had begun to make themselves felt in the western districts, and by the morning of the 25th a very abnormal dry north-westerly wind was blowing over a large part of South Bengal, and had completely driven back the strong southerly winds which had been previously blowing. On the 24th, owing to the disturbance produced by this interaction, a series of local storms, in some cases attended with very heavy rain, occurred in East Bengal, but all other districts remained practically rainless. This abnormal north-westerly current continued to blow on the 25th and 26th over a very considerable part of the province, but perhaps less strongly on the 26th. And on these days pressure commenced to fall, the fall being moderately large on the 25th and small on the 26th. Even at the close of the week, however, the pressure distribution was somewhat unusual, and decidedly high pressures were recorded in the west of the province in connection apparently with a high-pressure area which existed over Central India

Pressure.—The pressure changes during the week have therefore been large. On the first two days there was a particularly rapid fall; this was followed by a rise almost equally rapid which lasted for three days, and then by a moderate fall for two days. For the whole week the mean pressure of the province has been almost normal, the average variation not exceeding five thousandths of an inch. At the western stations pressure has been in decided excess, while elsewhere slight defective pressures have been recorded.

Temperature.—For the greater part of the week temperature has been increasing. The increase was very decided during the first three days ; this was followed by two or three days when the changes were a little variable, but towards the close of the week again temperature commenced to increase. Temperature has consequently been rather largely in excess of the normal, the excess in the mean temperature in Bengal being 4·4° and in East and North Bengal about 4°. For the whole province the excess in the mean temperature has averaged 3·4°.

The general distribution of temperature during the week and its variation from the normal are clearly shown in the following table, where the average maximum, minimum and mean temperatures for the week at nine typical stations in the province are compared with the normal values. From the table it will be seen that both the day and night temperatures have been rather largely above the normal : —

Rainfall.—The only districts in which the rainfall during the week has been at all important have been East and North Bengal, where the falls have averaged about half an inch. In other districts the rainfall has been so small that it does not average more than a few hundredths of an inch In all districts the falls have been very considerably below the normal for the period.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Friday, the 26th April 1889 :—

MEMORANDUM.

The table appended to this memorandum exhibits the vital statistics of the principal Municipalities in Bengal (excepting the Hughli and Chinsurah Municipality, from which no return has been received) for the week ending 13th April 1889. The figures in this table indicate—

1. Births were registered in this Municipality at the rate of 21·4 per 1,000 of population, against very nearly the same proportion, viz., 21·3 per 1,000, during the preceding week ending 6th April, and deaths at 21·4 per 1,000 against 24·8 per 1,000, indicating a large retrogression in the registration of deaths.

2. These events were returned in the highest proportions from the following Municipalities :—

Births.	Ratio per mille.	Deaths.	Ratio per mille.
Comillah	46·2	Purneah	76·2
Naraingunj	45·5	Puri	46·1
Durbhanga	43·3	Gya	40·3
Serampore	35·3	Rampore Beauleah	39·4
Bhagulpore	34·4
Howrah	29·8

3. The subjoined table gives the death-rates from the following specific diseases. The figures denote that as compared with the results of the preceding week, there was an abatement of mortality from all the diseases, noticeably from cholera :—

	Ratio per mille during the weeks ending— 13th April 1889.	6th April 1889.
Cholera	4·0	5·3
Small-pox	·1	·3
Fever	8·6	9·1
Bowel-complaints	2·1	2·6
Injury	·2	·3
Other causes	6·4	7·2

4. The highest death-rates from cholera and the diseases coming under the head of "Other causes" were returned from the following Municipalities :—

Cholera.	Ratio per mille.	Other causes.	Ratio per mille.
Purneah	51·9	Bhagulpore	18·1
Puri	23·0	Naraingunj	16·6
Serampore	18·7	Purneah	13·9
Rampore Beauleah	10·5	Gya	12·3
Gya	7·5	Chupra	10·7
Howrah	5·2	Puri	10·5
Dacca	3·9

The other maladies, excepting fever, did not prove conspicuously fatal anywhere. Fever appears to have prevailed with noticeable fatality only in Rampore Beauleah Municipality, where the death-rate was 21·0 per 1,000 of population.

5. With reference to Sex, Class and Age, the mortality of the week stood as follows :—

* A special census of the Europeans in the Darjiling Municipality was recently taken, as the census of this section of the community, taken in February 1881, was not reliable owing to the Europeans being at a minimum in that month. The number of the natives remains as before, as it was not necessary to re-census them. The ratios have consequently been calculated on the revised population under all heads in the above table, except "Age," the ratios under which have been omitted, inasmuch as the census of the Europeans above alluded to cannot be employed as a basis of calculation owing to the results of the census under this head not having been recorded under the authorized form of age classification.

The following Notice to Mariners, issued by the British Admiralty (No. 97 of 1889), is republished :—

The Government of Queensland has given notice, dated 23rd January 1889, that a subsidiary fixed white light, for leading clear of Rocky islet, is now exhibited at an elevation of 240 feet above high water, and bearing S. 63° E., distant 77 yards from the principal light-house on Cape Capricorn, south side of Keppel Bay :—

The light, the arrangement of which is somewhat similar to that of the subsidiary light on Bustard head, No. 751 in Light List, is obscured by a screen through a sector of 29°, or from the bearing of N.W. by W. ½ W. to N.N.W. ¾ W. to the distance of one mile seaward of Rocky islet between these two bearings, but is otherwise visible from the bearing of W. by N. to near the eastern coast of Curtis island. The north-eastern edge of the obscured sector leads 5 cables seaward of Rocky islet, and the south-western edge of it leads 3 cables inshore of that danger.

NOTE.—Vessels passing seaward of the obscured part of the sector will not be in less than 13 fathoms while abreast the islet. Approaching from the eastward, the principal light on Cape Capricorn should not be opened southward of the subsidiary light, as the lights in line lead very close to the line of obscuration. To pass inshore of Rocky islet, the subsidiary light must be kept northward of the bearing N.N.W. ¾ W.

Also, that the small subsidiary light on the north-west slope of Cape Capricorn is discontinued.

(2). Port Denison, south entrance—Additional leading lights.

Also, dated 30th January 1889, that two additional leading lights are now exhibited on the southern side of South entrance to port Denison, and which kept in line lead clear of the reef extending south-eastward of Stone island :—

The lights are fixed white lights, 500 yards apart, and bearing N.E. by E. and S.W. by W. from each other. The eastern light bears S. 83° E. from Mount Bramston, distant 700 yards, and is elevated about 25 feet above high water. The western light is elevated 60 feet above high water.

Approximate position, lat. 20° 4′ S., long. 148° 15¾′ E.

NOTE.—Vessels after rounding Cape Gloucester should steer S. W. ½ W. until the abovementioned leading lights are brought in line bearing S. W. by W., and keep them so till the leading lights westward of the town of Bowen are in line bearing N.W. ¾ W. The inner leading lights should then be kept in line until the anchorage is reached, or the sector of red light on North head is opened out on a N.N.E. bearing.

(The bearings and course are Magnetic, and those affecting the visibility of lights are given from seaward. Variation, { (1)...7¾° (2)...7° } Easterly in 1889.)

SANITARY TEACHING IN SCHOOLS.

THE revised instructions, issued in this office circular No. 83, dated the 28th June 1884, with regard to sanitary teaching in schools in Bengal, ran as follows :—

"In middle vernacular schools in Bengal, Dr. Cuningham's 'Sanitary Primer' and Baboo R. P. Mukerjea's 'Shasthya Rakshya' will continue to be read. For the upper primary examination the text-books will henceforward be (1) Dr. Cuningham's 'Sanitary Primer' (omitting the parts inclosed in square brackets) and (2) Baboo J. N. Mukerjea's 'Sarir Palan.' For the lower primary standard the 'Sanitary Primer' will in future be omitted, and Baboo J. N. Mukerjea's 'Saral Sarir Palan' will be the only text-book."

The Government of India in the Home Department having directed, in a resolution dated the 24th September 1887, that a translation of a modified edition of the "Way to Health," a Sanitary Primer published by the Christian Vernacular Society, Madras, should be substituted for Dr. Cuningham's Sanitary Primer in the curriculum of primary and middle vernacular schools, the Bengali translation of the "Way to Health," prepared under the orders of the Government of Bengal, will form part of the upper primary and middle scholarship course of 1891 in substitution of Dr. Cuningham's Sanitary Primer.

The result of these orders will be that in middle schools in which the language is Bengali, Rai R. P. Mukerjea Bahadur's "Shasthya Rakshya," and in upper primary schools Baboo J. N. Mukerjea's "Sarir Palan" will continue to be read, in addition to the Bengali translation of the "Way to Health."

The Bengali translation of the "Way to Health," which is the property of Government, may now be obtained at the Bengal Secretariat Press at one anna a copy. Under instructions from the District Magistrate or the Chairman of the District Board, as the case may be, the Deputy Inspector of each district should indent on the Superintendent, Government Printing, Bengal, for as many copies of the book as will probably be required, forwarding a public service transfer receipt for the amount. An advance for this purpose may be made from the primary allotment of the district, the sale proceeds of the books being paid in convenient sums into the Treasury to the credit of the same allotment.

	3	Birbhum " 4, '89	Nil	Weather—very hot, no signs of rain. No crops on the ground. The continued drought postpones ploughing for the next crops. Price of common rice rising. It is 13½ seers per rupee at head-quarters and about the same at Rampore Haut, the average for the district being 15 seers against 17 seers in the previous fortnight.
	4	Midnapur " 4, '89	·03	Weather—very hot. No rain. Ploughing has commenced in places, but rain is wanted for it generally. Mulberry is suffering for want of rain. Cocoons are stated to have been affected in Ghatal by the heat, the price having declined from Rs. 26-27 to Rs. 24-25 a maund. Prices of rice are as follows:— Rs. A. P. Midnapore ... 2 7 0 Ghatal ... 2 8 0 Contai ... 2 8 0 Tamlook ... 2 12 0 } per maund. Prices have risen in almost all thannas, and in some considerably.
	5	Hugli " 4, '89	Nil	Weather—hot with high wind from the south-west. Rain needed for ploughing and sowing of aus and jute. Price of common rice at Jehanabad Rs. 2-8 per maund, and at Hooghly from Rs. 3-8 to Rs. 3-12 per maund.

	8	Khoolna " 4, '89	Nil	Weather—hot with high wind. Good rain has fallen in the Bagirhat sub-division, but none in Satkhira. Ploughing going on, but retarded in the western parts for want of rain. Boro and til are being harvested in the Bagirhat and Khoolna sub-divisions; outturn good in Bagirhat; below the average in Khoolna.
	9	Jessore " 4, '89 Jhenidah ... Magura ... Narail ...	Nil 0·75 2·06 0·11	Weather—very hot with strong south-west wind in the evening. Sowing of aus and jute at a standstill in the Sudder and Bongong sub-divisions for want of rain. Prices of rice rising.
	10	Moorshedabad " 4, '89	Nil	Fine dry weather with passing clouds and duststorms. Abnormally hot south-west winds. Very little aus rice sown on account of want of rain. Boro paddy is being harvested. Price of common rice averages 14 seers the rupee. 	13	Rungpur " 4, '89	0·11	Weather—still unsettled. Sultry with occasional gales of wind from the north-east. The young jute is coming up well and paddy is flourishing. Sowings of both are completed. More rain is, however, wanted. Measures are being taken throughout the district to improve the water-supply, which is very defective and the cause of a good deal of disease.
	14	Bogra " 4, '89 Sherpore ... Nowkhilla ...	0·03 0·86 1·14	Weather—very hot, with variable winds, often very high; in the middle of the district excessively dry. CALCUTTA the 7th May 1889.

SUMMARY OF THE RAINFALL AND METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE WEEK ENDING FRIDAY, THE 3RD MAY 1889.

AT the commencement of the week the general conditions which obtained were those of the hot weather in a very pronounced form. Temperature was above the normal at almost all stations except a few in South Behar and Chutia Nagpur, and the excess in the mean temperature in several districts averaged about 7°. Pressure, on the other hand, was below the normal, the defect usually equalling from a twentieth to a tenth of an inch These conditions rather intensified on the 28th and 29th of April, and on the latter date the defect in the pressure varied from about a tenth to a twentieth of an inch. Pressure than rose by small amounts on the 30th, but this was succeeded by a fall on May 1st, and by a further rise on the 2nd and 3rd, the rise being decidedly rapid on the 3rd; so that at the close of the week the pressure conditions were fairly normal. Temperature, on the other hand, rose at the commencement of the week, and, except in Assam, has continued to be exceptionally high up to the close of the week, and on the 3rd, at several of the stations in the province, the mean temperature for the day was more than 10° in excess of the normal. In Assam, on the other hand, owing to the fact that rather heavy rain has commenced to be received there, temperature fell in the middle of the week, and has now become decidedly below the normal.

The usual hot weather distribution of winds has accompanied the above conditions, and strong south-westerly and southerly winds have been blowing at the southern stations, westerly winds at the western stations, and easterly winds in Assam and along the foot of the hills in Bengal. Owing perhaps to the very exceptional temperatures which have been recorded during the week, which would show that the differences of temperature between the land and sea surface must be larger than usual, the southerly breezes blowing at the head of the Bay and in South Bengal have been exceptionally strong; and at such stations as Saugor Island, wind has been blowing almost a gale for the greater part of the week; and thus from the 1st to the 2nd of May, the hourly wind velocity at that station averaged 34 miles, and for the whole week it has averaged nearly 28 miles an hour.

The general conditions in all districts, except in Assam and in East and part of North Bengal, have not been favourable for the production of local storms or nor'-westers, and thus in Orissa, South West Bengal, North and South Behar, and Chutia Nagpur rainfall has been practically absent. In Assam, on the other hand, rain has fallen on almost all days of the week, and in East Bengal and in the parts of North Bengal near the hills, rain accompanying local storms was frequent in the first half of the week.

Pressure—As previously stated, has been generally low for the greater part of the week, and the mean pressure for the whole of Bengal for the week has averaged a tenth of an inch below the normal. This defect is generally smallest at the western and southern stations, and largest in the north of the province; while in Assam the defect averages 0·114 inch, and at Sibsagar it equals 0·127 inch.

Temperature—Has been exceptionally high in all districts, except Assam, throughout the week. The general mean temperature of the week for the whole of Bengal has been nearly five degrees in excess of the normal, and in such districts as South-West and North Bengal, the excess has been between six and seven degrees. In all districts very high maximum temperatures have been reported, the highest being 115·4° at Midnapore on 30th April.

Rainfall.—The only district of Bengal which has received good general rain is East Bengal, which has averaged 1·10 inches during the week, which is, however, only about two-thirds of the normal fall for the period. In North Bengal an average fall of a third of an inch has been registered, which is only a fourth of the normal fall. In South-West Bengal a still smaller fall of less than a fifth of an inch is registered, and in Orissa and Chutia Nagpur, only a few unimportant showers are recorded, while Behar has been absolutely rainless. In Bengal, therefore, the week has again been one characterised by a largely deficient rainfall.

In Assam, on the other hand, rather heavy rain has now commenced to fall. Silchar, during the week, has received no less than 11·99 inches of rain, Sibsagar has received 3·38 inches, and Dhubri 0·55 inch.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Friday, the 3rd May 1889 :—

The results of observations at the Alipore Observatory are not rigorously comparable with the registers of past years (at the Park-street Observatory). The barometer is about 3 feet higher at Alipore, and, other things being equal, reads therefore ·003 lower. The diurnal range of temperature is also greater at Alipore, and the mean temperature apparently about 0·2° lower; and finally, the thermometer which furnished the record of temperature at the Surveyor-General's Office during 20 years and upwards is found to read 0·6 higher than the Kew standard thermometer, which is the standard of reference at the present Observatory.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

* A special census of the Europeans in the Darjiling Municipality was recently taken, as the census of this section of the community, taken in February 1881, was not reliable owing to the Europeans being at a minimum in that month. The number of the natives remains as before, as it was not necessary to re-census them. The ratios have consequently been calculated on the revised population under all heads in the above table, except "Age," the ratios under which have been omitted, inasmuch as the census of the Europeans above alluded to cannot be employed as a basis of calculation owing to the results of the census under this head not having been recorded under the authorized form of age classification.

Increases.

	Tons.
Coal ...	2,065
For railway purposes and B. C. F. services at Nawapara and Khoolna.
Jute ...	369
One half of the above increase was in local booking from Khoolna, the remaining half was contributed by Maslandpur, Jhikargachi, Singhia and Nawapara.
Sugar ...	324
About two-thirds contributed by Jhikargachi, due to an improved market.

Decreases.

Rice ...	771
There was a decrease of over 600 tons in local booking from Khoolna, due to generally poor outturn in the district.
Betelnuts ...	257
The decrease in this commodity is from Khoolna, and in through traffic from the Bengal Central Flotilla, viâ Khoolna.

The traffic is coming into Calcutta by river, the Bengal Central Flotila running direct boats in preference to giving this railway the traffic at Khoolna.

Particulars of St. Lazarus bank.

THE British Admiralty have given notice (Notice to Mariners No 107 of 1889) that the following information relating to St. Lazarus bank has been received from Commander T. F. Pullen, being the result of an examination made by H. M. Surveying Vessel Stork and her boats, extending over six days, from 3rd to 8th February 1889 :—

The area of the bank within the depths of 100 fathoms is of oblong shape, 11 miles long north and south, with an extreme breadth of 6 miles, and is included between the parallels of 12° 12′ and 12° 22′ S., and long. 41° 20′ and 41° 26½′ E.

The general depth was found to be under 20 fathoms, the nature of the bottom being sand and coral. The shoalest part within the depth of 10 fathoms is near the northern end of the bank, and is about 4 miles long in a north-west direction and 2 miles broad; the least depth found of 3½ fathoms being confined to a small coral patch in lat. 12° 13′ S., long. 41° 21¾′ E.

Beyond the depth of 100 fathoms the soundings increase rapidly ; at 6 miles north-east of the shoalest part, 1,080 fathoms was found, and at 14 and 25 miles eastward of the shoal part 1,308 and 1,131 fathoms were obtained.

A regular tide was observed when at anchor on the bank, the flood setting E. S. E. about 4 hours, and the ebb W. N. W. about 7 hours, with about half an hour slack water ; the strength at springs was 2 knots ; the rise and fall approximately 12 feet It is probable that at a little distance from the bank, and when out of the influence of the tidal streams that exist upon it, the currents vary in direction and velocity at different times of the year.

Fish in abundance were caught on the bank.

Having regard to the nature of this examination as detailed by Commander Pullen, it is considered that the several shoal soundings hitherto reported on or near St. Lazarus bank fall within the area assigned to it by H. M. S. Stork.

Regarding Baragna Flats—Gulf of Martaban.

COMMANDER ALFRED CARPENTER, R.N., in charge Marine Survey of India, has given notice that the I. M. Steamer Enterprise having carefully examined the southern edge of these flats found that the soundings shown on the present Admiralty Chart had not altered.

Navigators should bear in mind that high water full and change occurs at about 10*h.* 30*m.* west of the Krishna Shoal, and that the set of the stream will therefore differ very considerably from any calculation based on high or low water at Elephant Point, Rangoon.

Approaching Amherst, vessels will find a swatch of about 14 fathoms with 11 fathoms on either side of it lying near the western limit of Double Island light.

Soundings have altered very much in Lat. 15° N. and Long. 96° 50′ E., the twenty fathom line now stretching out to that position. Indications of this change will be seen on Admiralty Chart 823, south of the parallel of 15 degrees.

Regarding Sacramento Shoal—Godavari Coast.

THE following information has been received from Commander Carpenter, R N., in charge of the Marine Survey of India :—

Sacramento Shoal.—Lying in Lat. 16° 35′ 30″N., Long 82° 19′E , is a sand bank which nearly dries. From it, Hope Island light-house bears North distant 13½ miles.

Its outer edge is two miles from the line of coast.

The ten fathom line runs two miles outside the bank.

There are always breakers on it except at its very extreme.

An arm of the Godavari River has formed two spits, the southern of which is called the Sacramento Shoal. There is excellent anchorage of four fathoms under the lee of the northern spit. Between the spits there is a channel into the river having nine feet on the bar at low water; and deep water inside right up to the Godavari.

The only clearing mark by day is Thirthalmundi village, which stands on a mound with an obelisk among the huts bearing N. by W. which leads one mile outside the shoal.

By night, Hope Island light visible on a clear night from a few ratlines up the rigging, bearing N. by W. leads two miles outside the shoal.

Thirthalmundi village, eight miles south of Hope Island light, is marked on Admiralty Chart 71A.

Distances estimated by eye are very deceptive on this coast.

Bearings are Magnetic.

ORISSA COAST.

Navigators cautioned when passing the localities near the Dévi River mouth and entrance into Chilka Lake.

THE following information has been received from Commander Carpenter, R.N., in charge of the Marine Survey of India :—

By a recent survey of the coast between the Mahanaddi river and Gopalpur, it was found that the coast was quite free from submerged dangers. A small bank projects three-quarters of a mile seaward from the Dévi river month, and a similar one projects half a mile seaward from the entrance into Chilka lake.

Vessels should not shoal to less than 9 fathoms when passing these localities.

Otherwise the coast is clear, but the ten-fathom line frequently runs within three-quarters of a mile of the breakers on the shore.

There is a channel of 8 feet at low water into the Dévi river.

The northern mouth of the Mahanaddi appears to have closed, and the breakers off the southern mouth are now extending seaward.

Between Dévi river and Gopalpur the 20-fathom line varies from 5 to 13 miles off shore, and the 100-fathom line maintains a fairly uniform distance off shore of 18 miles.

Distances judged by eye are very deceptive on this coast.

Bearings are magnetic.

KEPPEL BAY.

Cape Capricorn—Subsidiary light on eastern slope, and discontinuance of light on north-west slope.

The following Notice to Mariners, issued by the British Admiralty (No. 97 of 1889), is republished :—

The Government of Queensland has given notice, dated 23rd January 1889, that a subsidiary fixed white light, for leading clear of Rocky islet, is now exhibited at an elevation of 240 feet above high water, and bearing S. 63° E., distant 77 yards from the principal light-house on Cape Capricorn, south side of Keppel Bay :—

The light, the arrangement of which is somewhat similar to that of the subsidiary light on Bustard head, No. 751 in Light List, is obscured by a screen through a sector of 29°, or from the bearing of N.W. by W. ½ W. to N.N.W. ¾ W. to the distance of one mile seaward of Rocky islet between these two bearings, but is otherwise visible from the bearing of W. by N. to near the eastern coast of Curtis island. The north-eastern edge of the obscured sector leads 5 cables seaward of Rocky islet, and the south-western edge of it leads 3 cables inshore of that danger.

NOTE.—Vessels passing seaward of the obscured part of the sector will not be in less than 13 fathoms while abreast the islet. Approaching from the eastward, the principal light on Cape Capricorn should not be opened southward of the subsidiary light, as the lights in line lead very close to the line of obscuration. To pass inshore of Rocky islet, the subsidiary light must be kept northward of the bearing N.N.W. ¾ W.

Also, that the small subsidiary light on the north-west slope of Cape Capricorn is discontinued.

(2). Port Denison, south entrance—Additional leading lights.

Also, dated 30th January 1889, that two additional leading lights are now exhibited on the southern side of South entrance to port Denison, and which kept in line lead clear of the reef extending south-eastward of Stone island :—

The lights are fixed white lights, 500 yards apart, and bearing N.E. by E. and S.W. by W. from each other. The eastern light bears S. 83° E. from Mount Bramston, distant 700 yards, and is elevated about 25 feet above high water. The western light is elevated 60 feet above high water.

Approximate position, lat. 20° 4′ S., long. 148° 15¾′ E.

NOTE.—Vessels after rounding Cape Gloucester should steer S. W. ½ W. until the abovementioned leading lights are brought in line bearing S. W. by W., and keep them so till the leading lights westward of the town of Bowen are in line bearing N.W. ¾ W. The inner leading lights should then be kept in line until the anchorage is reached, or the sector of red light on North head is opened out on a N N.E. bearing.

RESOLUTION ON THE REPORT ON THE WORKING OF THE CHITTAGONG HILL TRACTS POLICE FOR 1888.

POLITICAL.

Calcutta, the 10th May 1889.

READ—

Letter No. 51HP—VI-2, dated Chittagong, the 12th March 1889, and enclosure, from the Commissioner of Chittagong, submitting the departmental report on the working of the police of the Chittagong Hill Tracts for the year 1888.

Read also—

The Report for 1887 and the Resolution recorded thereon.

The submission of this report has been somewhat delayed, but the very heavy work entailed on Mr. Murray by the despatch of a military expedition to the Chittagong Hill Tracts sufficiently explains this. The presence of troops in the district has caused constant changes in the disposition of the Frontier Police; consequently the position of the police on 31st December was purely temporary.

2. The force was maintained at its former strength of 539 throughout the year, at the close of which there were 18 vacancies as against 19 on 31st December 1887. 44 Goorkhas were enlisted during the year. The recruiting party sent to Chumparun failed to enlist the full number of 50 owing to the order prohibiting the enlistment of Muggurs and Gurungs.

3. Rupees 430 out of a sanctioned grant of Rs. 570 for scouts were expended in rewarding hillmen for assistance rendered by them in the pursuit and detection of those concerned in the late raids within our frontier.

4. It is unfortunate that the District Superintendent of Police should not have found himself able to exercise proper supervision over the firing practice of his men. This is a matter to which the Lieutenant-Governor attaches very great importance.

5. The numbers of those who have been struck off the roll after expiration of leave have again increased, and it has been found that the attempt made by the Government to induce and assist men to return, by giving them free passes by rail and steamer, has not so far been successful. The system has been modified, as now only men actually returning from leave will be reimbursed the price of their railway and steamer journeys. After a year's trial it will be determined whether this concession should be continued or not.

6. The health of the force has been bad throughout the year, and the numbers of sick in hospital and the rate of mortality have increased, as compared with last year. This is partly due to an epidemic of cholera which caused nine deaths, there being 45 admissions into hospital for cholera as against 2 in 1887 and 6 in 1886. The figures below give a comparative statement for the last three years:—

	1886.	1887.	1888.
Deaths	19	14	27
Admissions into hospital	2,409	2,361	2,609
Daily average of sick	44	52	53

7. The carriage of provisions, baggage and stores by a Coolie Corps has been abandoned, as it is said to have been found more costly than the old contract system, besides adding considerably to the duties of the police, owing to their responsibility for the conveyance and guard of every package that had to be transported. The former system has therefore been reverted to, and rates fixed for the season. There are still, however, some coolies employed directly under Government in the making of roads, including a party of 168 Sonthals imported during the past year, who are said to have proved themselves excellent workers, and to be desirous of bringing their wives and children to settle in the district.

8. The civil police are mainly occupied with work elsewhere done by peons, as there is no other establishment available in the Chittagong Hill Tracts. As there is very little crime, this does not interfere with the primary duties of the force, and in the peculiar circumstances of the Tracts, it is found desirable to have one establishment for all purposes.

9. In paragraph 20 an account is given of the raids on the frontier, and of the duties in which the men of the Frontier Police were engaged during the past year; but as these subjects have been dealt with fully in special reports and orders, it is needless to discuss them in detail here. It may be remarked, however, that the experience of the year has shown conclusively that the arrangements made hitherto for the protection of the frontier have been wholly inadequate to prevent the commission of outrages by the Hill Tribes beyond, and that a radical change of policy has now become a necessity.

10. At the same time the Lieutenant-Governor highly appreciates the promptitude and energy with which the perpetrators of the various outrages were pursued and the good service done by the portion subsequently employed with the Lushai Expeditionary Force. He continues to hear on all sides expressions of approval of the very excellent work of the officers and men of the Frontier Police. In the very arduous labours that have lately fallen to their share they have never been found wanting in a single material point, and it is a matter for congratulation that the Government should have ready to hand for the peculiar work of the Chittagong Hill Tracts so efficient and loyal a body of men. In conclusion Sir Steuart Bayley wishes to take this opportunity of recording his high appreciation of the ability, energy, and zeal displayed by the District Superintendent Mr. C. S. Murray in conducting the very arduous duties which devolved on him during the year.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of this Resolution be forwarded to the Commissioner of the Chittagong Division for information.

Ordered also that the Resolution be published in the Gazette.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

J. WARE EDGAR,

Chief Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

RESOLUTION ON THE REPORT OF THE HEALTH OFFICER OF THE PORT OF CALCUTTA FOR THE YEAR 1888.

No. 1061Marine.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL—PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT.

MARINE.

Dated Calcutta, the 13th May 1889.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

A letter No. 2322, dated the 28th March 1889, from the Sanitary Commissioner, Bengal, submitting the report of the Health Officer of the Port of Calcutta for the year 1888.

Establishment.

DR. LYNCH was the Health Officer of the Port of Calcutta from the commencement of the year up to the 3rd July, when he retired from the service, and was succeeded by Dr. Vincent Richards, who has submitted the present report. In 1885, the Health Officer requested that he might be supplied with a "bolio" in place of the "dinghy" which he had theretofore used, and one was given to him. It was then reported that the new boat was unsuitable, and the Port Officer's "bolio" being available, it was made over in August 1888 to the Health Officer, who thought it would suit him. Dr. Richards now states that this boat also is unsuitable for his use, and asks that a boat similar to those used by the Custom House Officers may be supplied to him. The Port Officer of Calcutta will be requested to obtain and submit an estimate of the cost of a boat such as Dr. Richards considers to be necessary for his use.

Inspections.

2. The report shows that 1,464 vessels were inspected during the year against 1,601 in 1887. The decrease is due to the less frequent inspection of coasting steamers which arrive at the port many times in the course of the year, and which it is not considered necessary to inspect at each return visit, as they have to be visited for the purpose of furnishing bills of health on their departure, which generally takes place within a few days of their arrival.

Dr. Richards brings to notice the insufficiency of accommodation provided for crews in many of the iron built vessels visiting this port, and states that little attention is paid to the ventilation necessary for their health. The Government of India will be requested to ask the Secretary of State to move the Board of Trade to communicate with ship-owners on this subject.

Sickness and mortality among European seamen.

3. The daily average number of European seamen in the port was 1,510 against 1,893 in 1887. The health of the seamen was not so good as in the previous year. Including deaths out of hospital, the death-rates per mille of the last five years were as follows:—

	Cholera.	Other diseases.	Total.
1884	21·96	41·57	63·53
1885	4·72	25·99	30·71
1886	11·61	33·53	45 14
1887	10·03	16·91	26·94
1888	10·59	27·15	37·74

The total number of casualties from all causes amounted to 57 against 51 in the previous year. It has, however, to be observed that there were eight deaths from sunstroke against four in the previous year, the larger number being due to the exceptional weather of last June. It is satisfactory to notice that the death-rate from cholera during the year compares favourably with the quinquennial mean.

The Health Officer complains that timely notice is not given to him of the occurrence of cholera on board ships, and that as a consequence the opportunity for making satisfactory enquiry is lost. The Sanitary Commissioner will asked to report what rule the Health Officer would propose to meet the necessities of the case.

There were six deaths of Europeans from drowning, three of which occurred at the jetties. Dr. Richards suggests that there should be a hand-rail on each side of the landing stage. The Port Commissioners will be asked to consider and report on his suggestion.

Deaths at sea.

At sea there were 35 deaths among the European seamen against 47 during the previous year.

4. The number of European seamen admitted into hospital on account of venereal disease was less than that of the previous year, though there was a slightly higher admission-rate per mille of population. The following table shows the admissions into hospital since 1883:—

Venereal disease.

	Total admissions.	Rate per thousand.
1883	237	127·4
1884	184	109·2
1885	170	100·4
1886	417	179·2
1887	228	120·4
1888	183	121·1

5. Scurvy appears to be steadily decreasing. The number of persons admitted into hospital suffering from this disease amounted to 13, 17, 4 and 3, respectively, during the last four years. The three cases that occurred during the year were not due to the supply of any inferior kind of food or antiscorbutics to the seamen.

6. The Sanitary Commissioner, in submitting the report of the Health Officer for the year 1887, stated that the number of the native population on the river, according to the census of 1881, viz. 25,000, was below the actual number constantly found, and represented that a correct day census of the native river population was necessary for the purpose of arriving at the correct rate of mortality among them. The subject has during the past year received the Lieutenant-Governor's consideration; but having in view the difficulty and expense that would be incurred in taking the proposed census, His Honour has decided not to take any action at present in this direction.

Sickness and mortality among the native floating population.

The following table shows the mortality recorded from all causes among the native river population, the averages being calculated on a population of 25,000:—

	Total deaths. 1888.	Total deaths. 1887.	Ratio per mille.— 1888.	Ratio per mille.— 1887.
Cholera	95	49	3·7	1 91
Bowel-complaints	7	6	·27	·23
Fever, malarious	22	......	·85	·85
Ditto, simple	......	22
Other diseases	24	21	·98	·81
Total ...	148	98	5 78	3·82

The above figures show that the health of the native river population, like that of the European population, was not so good in 1888 as it was in the previous year. The figures are, however, in neither case very reliable.

7. The total death-rate among the lascar crews on the river was 1·6 per 1,000 against 4·04 per 1,000 in 1887. No complaints were made by lascar crews during the year.

Lascar crews.

8. Two ships arrived during the year with pilgrims on board, in one of which there were three cases of small-pox. In his report on the health of the port for the year 1887, the Health Officer stated that considerable difficulty was experienced in enforcing the provisions of the Compulsory Vaccination Act on vessels arriving with cases of small-pox on board, and suggested that a landing stage and depôt in a suitable place with shelter-sheds might be erected where pilgrims could be detained for the purpose of being vaccinated. To act on the Health Officer's proposal would necessitate an amendment of the law, and the matter is still under the consideration of the Lieutenant-Governor.

Pilgrims.

The Sanitary Commissioner will be requested to make a separate report on the proposal to compel unprotected pilgrims to be vaccinated before they are permitted to proceed on a pilgrimage by sea.

9. There has been a general improvement in the conservancy of the foreshore of the river. But the sewer on the Howrah side, which drains a large portion of Conservancy. Sanitary defects.

Howrah into the river, continues to cause a serious nuisance. The drain forms a part of the general drainage of the town of Howrah, and was included in a scheme which was sanctioned in 1881. In the interests of the shipping, as well as in the general interests of sanitation, it is desirable that the town of Howrah should have a proper system of drainage and water-supply. The attention of the Municipal Commissioners of Howrah has been drawn to the defective system of drainage in the town, and they have expressed their intention of preparing a comprehensive scheme for the draining of the town away from the river. The Commissioners have been urged to lose no time in carrying out this project.

Dr. Richards complains of the public nuisance caused at the jetties by persons in the employ of the Port Commissioners resorting to the foreshore beneath the jetties for the purposes of nature. He says that the latrine accommodation provided by the Commissioners is not sufficient for the large number of labourers and workmen employed at the jetties. The Sanitary Commissioner, in his letter No. 1267, dated the 15th February 1889, reported that in his opinion the latrine accommodation within the jetty enclosures was quite sufficient. He will be requested to make a further report on the subject.

Dr. Richards states that the complaints made in the previous year's report in regard to the latrines of the British India Steam Navigation Company in their workshops at Howrah have not received the attention they deserved on the part of the Company. The Agents of the Company were addressed by Government on the subject, but they did not admit that any nuisance was caused by their drains. The Sanitary Commissioner has been asked for further particulars on the subject.

The Health Officer draws attention to the outflow of liquid sewage from Fort William into the river, which has long been a source of nuisance to the shipping, and the public using the Strand Road. Representations on this subject were made last year to the Government of India, in the Military Department, and at the request of that Government a scheme is now under preparation for the discharge of the Fort sewage into the Calcutta sewers. The Lieutenant-Governor hopes that the Government of India will find it possible to carry out the scheme during the present year.

Dr. Richards also alludes to the unsatisfactory state of Kassi Mitter's burning ghât, and suggests that steps should be taken to screen it from the public gaze, and to divert the drainage of the locality away from the river into which it flows at present. The Corporation of Calcutta will be addressed on the subject, and steps will be taken to remedy the evil complained of.

Corpses and carcasses floating in the river.

10. The Lieutenant-Governor is glad to notice that during the year under review there was a marked decrease in the number of corpses and carcasses found floating in the river.

Water-supply.

11. No complaint regarding the supply of water was received from the shipping during the year, but Dr. Richards is of opinion that the construction of the water-boats is objectionable, and that even the new one supplied by the Calcutta Corporation is faulty in this respect. He thinks that the boats of the British India Steam Navigation Company for the supply of water to their fleet are excellent, and that it would be a great benefit to the shipping in the river if the Municipal Commissioners provided similar ones. The Corporation of Calcutta will be addressed on this subject.

Conclusion.

12. The Lieutenant-Governor endorses the commendation bestowed upon Dr. Richards by the Sanitary Commissioner for the energy and efficiency displayed by him in the performance of his duties. His Honour also notices with pleasure that the Native Sanitary Inspector, Babu Nanda Lal Haldar, has performed his duties satisfactorily.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

W. B. BESTIC,

Under-Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

CALCUTTA MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS, 1889.

No. M 1-A/1 34, dated Calcutta, the 14th May 1889.

From—C. CUTHBERTSON, ESQ., Offg. Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Municipal Department,

To—The Chairman of the Corporation of the Town of Calcutta.

I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 1004, dated the 15th April 1889, reporting on the Municipal elections held in Calcutta and the amalgamated portions of the Suburbs on the 15th March.

2. In reply, I am directed to convey to you the thanks of the Lieutenant-Governor for your interesting report, and to say that His Honour accepts your view that, considering the novelty of the arrangements, and the exceedingly defective state of the old register of owners which the new system is specially designed to remedy (but which formed unavoidably the basis of the first election), the proceedings were carried out with as much success as could be expected, and the actual arrangements at the polling booths worked with exceptionally little friction or difficulty.

3. The Lieutenant-Governor approves the proposals contained in paragraphs 14 and 29 of your report, that the duty of correcting the occupiers' list should in future be undertaken by the Municipality, and that the name of the person representing a firm for voting purposes should be ascertained at the time of granting a license to it.

4. With reference to paragraph 33 of your report, I am to request that you will be so good as to submit, for the consideration of the Lieutenant-Governor, a draft of the rule which you would propose to substitute for rule 11 of the election rules.

No. 1004, dated Calcutta, the 15th April 1889.

From—The HON'BLE SIR HENRY HARRISON, C. S., Chairman of the Corporation of the Town of Calcutta,

To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

I HAVE the honour to submit the following report on the elections held in Calcutta and the amalgamated portions of the Suburbs on the 15th March 1889.

Changes made by new Act in system of voting.

2. As this is the first election under a new system, and as, moreover, it is the first occasion on which personal voting at the polls has been requisite, it seems desirable to explain briefly the changes made by the new law in order that their success may be fairly gauged. This is the more desirable because from the complaints which have been generally made as to the obsolete character of the lists prepared, it is evident that the objections to the old system are very little realised, while the remedies which the present law applies are mistaken for the disease which they so clearly reveal.

3. Under the law hitherto in force, the Chairman had only a passive part in the preparation of the list of electors. The section in point (18) is thus worded—"Any person qualified to vote at an election or to be elected as a Commissioner may, at any time not being less than six weeks or more than three months before the election takes place, apply personally or by letter to the Chairman of the Corporation for registration of his name as such voter or person as aforesaid, &c."

And the one qualification for voting was to be a male person resident in Calcutta, of full age who had paid Rs. 25 rates and taxes during the year preceding the election (Sections 7 and 8).

Objections to former system.

4. The result of these sections was to place the election entirely in the hands of the electioneering agents. Scarcely a single person came forward of himself to ask to be entered on the list, while the electioneering agents went round and collected the names of all those who would vote for them and (till the practice was changed by me at the 3rd election) got the voting papers made over to them in return. These they kept in their hands, had them filled up at their leisure by the voters, and returned them to the polling officer at the day of election. The abuse was apparent on the face of these proceedings and constituted a very grave defect in the old law, but besides this there was the insuperable difficulty that the Chairman had no means of knowing who had and who had not paid Rs. 25 rates and taxes, so that for all practical purposes, it was necessary to take assertion for proof. The bulk of the payments are rates, and the rate bills both for owners and occupiers are made out according to the assessment register. Had the assessment register been accurate, the claim might have been tested by reference to it; but it was notoriously so obsolete owing to the failure of owners or occupiers to register, that the Office could not report who had paid, but only that the rates had been paid. Hence a system grew up, which I several times referred to in Council, of applying for votes according to the amount paid. If a house paid Rs. 80 in rates, it would cover 3 votes; if Rs. 240, 9; if Rs. 500, 20 votes. Accordingly, the electioneering agents often arranged the families according to the rates. It was a family of 3, 9, or 12 persons, according to the number which the rates would cover, and there were no means of testing the statements made. The register only bore the name of (say) the grandfather dead long ago, and in his name all the rate bills were made out. In one case, which attracted my attention specially, 29 persons claimed to vote as joint-owners and occupiers of one house.

The same difficulty occurred in respect of firms taking out licenses. Such firms exist in hundreds, in Burra Bazar, two names being joined together, which often are quite different from the real persons managing the business. It was argued that if two partners paid Rs. 50, each paid Rs. 25; but, by the same argument, if two paid Rs. 25, or three paid Rs. 50, none could vote. Therefore, if the sum paid was Rs. 25, one person claimed under it; if Rs. 50, two persons; if Rs. 100, three or four, and there were no possible means of checking the correctness of the allegations made.

Remedies.

5. To remedy these evils which reduced the voting qualification almost to a farce, the new Act provided that lists of owners, occupiers, and license-holders should be prepared according to the Office registers. By this provision not only would the necessity of applying on the part of the rate-payer be dispensed with, but also the inaccurate character of the assessment book would be brought prominently to notice, owners who wished to vote would be compelled to register, and the evil be remedied. The irregular practice of splitting up qualifications was replaced by a regulated system of plural voting. As regards the qualifications for voting, it was not at first intended to go further than owners, occupiers, license-holders, and payers of carriage and horse tax, but as it was represented that a great many persons who had hitherto voted would be thereby disenfranchised, a saving clause was introduced allowing persons who paid Rs. 24 rates and taxes in the aggregate to vote as heretofore, provided—(1) that they applied to be entered on the list, and (2) that they paid in their own name and on their own sole account.

6. The annual valuation fixed by the law as giving a vote to an owner or occupier was Rs. 300. This would ordinarily entail a payment of at least Rs. 24 a year in rates alone, but it was pointed out that if a person was both owner and occupier of a smaller house, he would still usually pay that amount. Another qualification was therefore added to the Bill in Committee, that those who both owned and occupied houses valued at Rs. 150 and upwards should also be entitled to a vote, but they also, as in the previous Act, must apply for it. One further provision of the new law ought to be noticed. It might be possible for the polling officer on the day of election to judge who was the right person to represent the Great Eastern Hotel or any other large and well known European place of business, but it was quite impossible to impose upon him this duty with regard to the hundreds of petty firms of Burra Bazar. It was therefore necessary to ascertain in some way beforehand and enter in the list the names of the authorised representatives of each firm. Section 24 therefore provided that a letter should be sent not less than 30 days before the Election to every Hindoo joint family, company, firm, and other association of persons entitled to vote, requesting them to fill in a form to accompany such letter, with the name of the person authorised to vote on their behalf.

Detail of qualifications under new Act.

7. The qualifications under the new Act may therefore be thus summarised:—

(a) Major qualifications—
(1) Owner of a house valued at Rs. 300 a year and upwards.
(2) Occupier of ditto ditto.
(3) Holder of a license of Rs. 25 a year or upwards.

List of persons thus qualified were to be prepared by the Chairman from his Office registers, and votes could be added together up to a maximum of 12; names omitted or wrongly entered might form the subject of claim or objection.

(b) Minor or saving qualifications—

(1) Owing and also occupying house of Rs. 150—299.

(2) Paying at least Rs. 24 as rates and taxes in the aggregate.

As these were only inserted in the law in order not to disenfranchise existing voters, the provision requiring them to apply to have their names added to the list was retained, and the votes could not be added to votes under other qualifications.

8. One word more before describing the proceedings. The Bill was drafted and passed through Committee on the assumption that for the first year the old Commissioners would continue in office, and the elections take place after the new machinery had been working for at least 9 months. This was altered in Council, not indeed against my advice, but with a clear and definite warning by me that we should have to conduct the election without having that control over all the registers and statistics which a certain period of working would give us. It is but fair and reasonable to bear this in mind.

9. I now proceed to a description of the manner in which the new machinery worked. The most important qualification perhaps is that of ownership, and as it is the obsolete character of the lift of owners and occupiers, which is one of the special indictments brought by the public against these elections, I think it will be easy to show that here the fault has been found with the remedy rather than as it should have been with the disease. The existing law (section 108) provides for the maintenance of an assessment book which shall contain inter alia the name of the owner and the name of the occupier of each property. It is of the essence of good Municipal administration that a book of this kind should be accurate, at least as far as owners are concerned. It is vitally important to the Corporation to know who are the persons to whom they have to look for the proper and rational management of the property under their administration. At the same time it was notorious that so far from being accurate, the present register was grossly inaccurate. Many owners, not always perhaps unintentionally, had taken no steps whatsoever to get their names registered, and therefore one of the special objects of the present law has been to make the inducements to registration such that in future owners would as a rule register. In many respects they are penalised in small ways for non-registration, and one of the penalties which is designedly attached to failure to register, is the loss of a vote at the elections; this is conferred (vide section 21) not on all owners as such, but on all owners who have registered themseles as such. It is therefore most unreasonable to urge as a defect in the present Act the very defect in the pre-existing state of things, which the new Act is designed to remedy. The extent to which dead persons and persons who have left Calcutta have appeared in the electoral lists, furnishes conclusive evidence of the extreme inaccuracy of the register of owners, and of the urgent need of rectifying it. It shows also how impossible it has been hitherto to check claims to votes on account of rates paid.

Ownership.

10. Whether or not it is fair to owners to penalise them for non-registration by the loss of the owner's vote is another matter. To my mind it most certainly is; one of the avowed objects of the present law has been to bring into greater prominence the duties of owners as contrasted with their rights, and those who will not discharge one of the most obvious duties of ownership have no right to complain if they thereby lose its privileges.

11. So far as was consistent with the maintenance of this principle, every possible precaution was taken to warn owners of the necessity of registering their names and amending the register. In the October to December quarter a printed notice (vide annexure A) was circulated with the rate bills to all the owners in Calcutta warning them of this necessity, with a form attached for them to fill up and return. Moreover, the ordinary precautions against a hasty mutation of names were temporarily suspended on purpose to facilitate registration. An order was given by me directing the Assessor on application to register at once temporarily, informing the applicant that for voting purposes his name was entered in the assessment book, but that he must, within a specified period after the election, produce the usual evidence, otherwise it would be removed again.

12. About 5,000 of these forms were circulated by the collecting sircars, and 1,500 covering 3,200 houses were filled in and returned. That the registers, even after these corrections had been made, were almost ludicrously inaccurate, shows what a large number of owners who ought to have registered long ago, or at least ought to have filled up and returned the forms, would not take the trouble to do so. I must submit that people who will not even take the trouble to fill up a form left at their door, in order to remedy a defect of their own making, have no right afterwards to complain of the omission of their name from the list of voters, or of the insertion of an obsolete name instead of it. In a case of this kind it is neither fair nor just to overlook the enormous good which this salutary provision of the Act has effected as compared with the mere superficial harm that has resulted. How have the elections been in any way injured or invalidated by the inclusion in the list of a number of persons who are long since dead? The real evil was not the publication of those names, but the fact that they were the only owners of whom the Corporation knew anything, and I have very little doubt that the improvement in this respect which will result from the election will be very great. Henceforth the assessment book will be a reality.

Occupancy.

13. The case of occupiers is recognised by the Act as different. It can hardly be expected of a temporary occupant that he should register his name in the books of the Municipality, and therefore the law (section 21) allows an occupier's name to be inserted in the roll of voters if he can satisfy the Chairman that he has paid the rates as occupier for the quarter immediately preceding the elections. This provision was utilised in a very liberal way. The occupiers' list, as taken from the registers, was almost as imperfect as that of the owners, but evidence was freely admitted to have a new name entered on the roll of voters.

14. The result was that every occupier whose name was registered as such has been given his votes, as well as every occupier who took the trouble to apply in time for entry of his name, but the large number who were neither registered nor cared to apply were omitted. It has been said, however, that it is too much to expect a person to apply, and that in England he is registered without applying. This is very likely correct, but it should be recollected that, under the law hitherto in force in Calcutta, application was obligatory; it is hardly fair, therefore, to blame the new law for not introducing every improvement at once. I am now inclined to think that we ought to correct the occupiers' register ourselves. No question of proprietary right being involved, there will be no serious objection to names of occupiers being changed on insufficient or even incorrect grounds, and I have accordingly taken steps to have the names of occupiers continuously ascertained in future by our collecting establishments, and reported to the Assessor for entry in his assessment book.

License.

15. The third qualification which according to the new law entitles to a vote without any application is paying a trade or profession license. The list of these voters was easily prepared, though there was some difficulty in identifying them with the owners and occupiers of the same name and amalgamating their votes. A very large number of lawyers, however, took out their licenses from the High Court and Small Cause Court, giving no other residence. Their names therefore at first appeared as voters in ward No. 12, but as a section of the law had been expressly drafted to prevent their swamping the electors of that ward, they had to be struck out, but were warned by advertisement that if they wished to vote in the wards in which they resided or paid rates, their names would be entered in the rolls for those wards on receipt of an intimation from them stating their place of residence.

16. Many of them availed themselves of this notice. and on the whole the part of the list which contained the names of licensees, was, I think, the most accurate. The total number of persons shown in the first list as qualified to vote under the three heads of owners, occupiers and licensees, was 14,090, the details of which, ward by ward, will be seen in annexure B

Saving qualifications.

17. It was the express intention of the Act that the remaining qualifications, viz., owning and occupying a house of between Rs. 150 and Rs. 300, paying Rs. 24 carriage and horse tax, or paying Rs. 24 rates and taxes in all, should only apply to those who claimed under them. None of these names, therefore, appeared in the first list, but the provisions of section 21, authorizing them to apply, were duly pointed out in publishing the list. When the 15 days' time allowed by law had expired, it was found that in all 4,295 applications had been received, of which

1,141 were under these special qualifications, and 3,154 referred to errors and omissions in the list. Annexure B will show the details of these ward by ward.

Pluralities.

18. The next important stage was the conversion of the names of joint families, companies, firms, and associations into those of the individuals who were to represent them at the polls, already referred to in paragraph 6. Section 24 provides that a form shall be sent to the address of all such companies, &c., for them to fill up and return with the name of their selected representative. These were duly sent out to the number of 2,716, but of these only 1,362 were returned. Hence a difficulty arose as to what was to be done with the remainder. It was impossible to leave it to the discretion of the polling officer to determine whether the person claiming to vote was or was not the authorised representative of a company or firm. It was therefore considered best to omit from the revised list all joint families, companies, firms, and other associations of persons who nad not returned the form sent to them. It was hoped that if any of them did value the privilege of voting, they would apply for the restoration of their names after the appearance of the revised list, and if they did not do so, it might be assumed that they did not value a vote, and that there was no harm in excising their names. As regards the case under this section in the High Court, I refer to it further on.

Revised list.

19. The revised list appeared in due course and contained 11,664 names. It was received with almost as little interest as the first list, except on the part of the intending candidates and their agents. Under the rules made by Government (vide annexure C), objections might be taken to this list on the score of the person named in it being dead, a woman, or a minor, or of the name being a duplicate of another name, or of the representative of a firm or company being wrongly authorised. In all 1,711 objections were taken between the 1st and 14th of March, which have been since disposed of. By these preliminary measures, all the irregularities and the anomalies which have characterised previous elections were eliminated on this occasion, and the polling officers found themselves in possession of a clear list of single names, in dealing with which their task was the comparatively easy one of guarding against wrongful personation. The polling ing therefore passed off with the most complete regularity so far as the official machinery was concerned. I visited all the polling stations in the town except one during the progress of the poll, and nowhere was there any difficulty or embarrassment to be adjusted or put straight. This does not refer to the artifices of the candidates and their agents, which are, of course, not under our control. A few complaints were received of voters being persuaded to change their mind and vote for a different candidate from the one they had promised, and in some cases the polling officers were blamed for not preventing their doing so, but this supposes a duty imposed on these officers which they cannot reasonably be called upon to undertake. All that they can see is that the voter fairly understands who he is voting for, and knows what he is doing; they cannot regulate or control the influences brought to bear upon him either as he comes to the poll or even at the polling table. With these reservations the polling arrangements were everywhere satisfactory, and the proceedings conducted in an orderly and regular manner. In one ward personation was practical to such an extent as to change the apparent result of the election, when the votes were declared invalid; but this was in no way the fault of the polling officer. The candidate against whose interests the personation took place, admitted that the polling officers had neglected to precautions. With this exception the objections taken to votes were very few; these to the number of 87 have since been disposed of. At the same time it is possible to detect one or two openings for fraud which should be guarded against at future elections. These I have referred to further on.

Personal voting.

20. As regards going to the polls, all that can be said is that the reluctance to do so was somewhat less than the most extreme opponents of the measure prognosticated; out of a total of 11,664 voters on the revised list, only 3,369 actually voted, but in 6 out of the 25 wards, containing 3,688 voters, there was absolutely no poll, while in several other wards the poll closed early owing to the retirement of the losing candidates; of the remainder a certain percentage must be allowed for persons who are dead or have left Calcutta; still after making every allowance under these heads, it is evident that a very large number of persons entitled to vote have abstained from doing so

Plural votes.

21. As regards the system of plural voting, all that I can say is that absolutely no complaints have reached me, and no difficulty has been experienced in working it. I have no doubt that numerous as the abstentions were, they would have been still more numerous, had not the wealthy voters been given more influence than the poorer. In comparing this election with those that have preceded it, it is but fair—(1) to compare it with the first rather than the later elections under the old Act, and (2) to bear in mind that one of the special objects of the new provisions was to place the elections somewhat less exclusively under the control of the wire-pullers and electioneering agents. Apathy on the part of the voting public has been the characteristic feature of all Calcutta, as well as of most other Municipal elections. That such apathy has marred the working of the new machinery to some extent is no argument whatsoever against that machinery unless it can be shown that it did so more rather less than before. This has most certainly not been the case. Under the former law (section 18) any person wishing to vote was required to send an application to have his name entered on the list of voters. The consequence was that the voting lists were almost exclusively made up by the agents of the rival candidates; there was hardly any voting public at all outside those on behalf of whom agents applied. As conclusive evidence of this, it was found at the first election in 1876 that out of 2,228 Europeans and Eurasians who were believed to be qualified to vote only 199 applied, and were included in the voting list. In the present list this number was 2,341, so that whatever the omissions of the present list, they will bear no comparison with those of the first list prepared under the old system.

Simplicity of the English system.

22. It must also be borne in mind that the difficulties of preparing a voting list in Calcutta are far greater that the similar difficulties in English towns. In England only occupiers have votes, and to prepare a correct list of the actual occupiers of each house is a comparatively easy task. In Calcutta, on the other hand, not only are owners entitled to vote but also licensees, and other persons who pay Rs. 24 annual taxation under all heads. To prepare a list of owners from any other source except an official register, would be a very dangerous proceeding. Again, the custom of using the names of firms instead of individuals in the business parts of Calcutta, is so deeply engrained in the habits of the people, that it is hardly an exaggeration to say that in the great majority of cases, the real persons who carry on the business are not the ostensible ones. Under such circumstances, polling must have led to inextricable confusion, unless rigorous measures had been taken to fix the vote on a single responsible individual in the finally revised list. It is perhaps to be expected that persons who would not stir a finger to secure a vote, while it was open to them to do so, should afterwards complain if solicited for that vote by the candidates, when it was too late to obtain it, but though one of the newspapers states that the complaints which have reached it have been very numerous indeed, I can only say that those which reached me have been comparatively few, and almost in every instance they have been those of persons whose claims have been barred by their own failure to move at the proper time.

Result of the elections—Small number of Europeans.

23. As regards the result of the elections, disappointment has been expressed in some quarters at the number of Europeans returned being less rather than more than before, and it is assumed without any foundation that the new Act was expected to work in the opposite direction. When new legislation was on the tapis, it was proposed both in the Amalgamation Committee and in Council, as well as by the Hindoo Associations and organs to increase the proportion of elected Commissioners to ¾ or ⅘ This I strenuously opposed, more specially in a note, dated 26th November 1885, appended to the Amalgamation Committee's report, in which I showed that the new suburban wards would tend to increase the Hindoo majority, and strongly protested against any increase in the proportion elected by the wards. But I asserted in the clearest possible terms that this would still leave the Hindoo predominence as it was The argument which I used throughout was this that as many native gentlemen had abundant leisure which they were only too glad to devote to municipal work, while most qualified Europeans had no leisure and grudged the time which they regarded as wasted over municipal discussions, it was inevitable that the leisured Commissioners must have a large majority, at least on Committees as compared with the busy Commissioners, and that it was best to recognise this and make them feel a sense of responsibility. But a majority would often work very well if it had a substantial minority to face, but badly if that minority was too weak. Therefore care ought to be taken to maintain a substantial European minority.

24. This would be endangered partly by the loss of the third member in the European wards, partly by the addition of the suburban wards which were electing almost a solid phalanx of Hindoos, and the checks introduced into the new Act, besides retaining one-third of the Commissioners for nomination or election by special constituencies, were (1) to have the list of voters drawn up in the office according to qualifications instead of only on applications, and (2) to allow plural votes by which wealthy European voters would get the same weight which wealthy Hindoo voters already got by the indirect method of partnerships and joint families. Have these checks failed? A reference to Annexure D will show that they most certainly have not. The following is a statement of the voters in the town arranged according to nationalities at the four elections under the old Act and at the recent elections:—

Years.	Hindoos.	Mahomedans.	Europeans.	Chinese.	Jews.	Parsees.	Total.
1876	4,556	239	187	3	3	6	4,994
1879	6,025	604	352	2	16	5	7,004
1882 (10,587)	7,314	797	1,017	5	33	14	9,180
1885 (9,548)	7,051	1,005	855	12	35	17	8,975
1889	7,964	1,286	2,340	9	36	29	11,664

It will be seen that while the new system gives the Hindoo voters, including the suburban wards, an increase of only 8 per cent. on the largest number previously obtained, and the Mahomedans an increase of 28 per cent, it gives the Europeans, &c., an increase of 230 per cent.

25. This is as regards the number of voters, but if the voting power due to the plural system is also taken into consideration, the same tabular statement will show that the Europeans who had never before exceeded 11 per cent. of the voters in the town, and who on this occasion were just over 20 per cent, had the power of exercising 11,034 votes out of 46,402 or 24 per cent. Again, if the voters in each ward are examined, it will be seen that the Europeans had voting strength sufficient to return—

1	Commissioner for ward	10
1	ditto	12
1	ditto	13
1	ditto	14
1	ditto	15
2	ditto	16
2	ditto	17
2	ditto	18
1	ditto	19
1	ditto	20
1	ditto	21
1	ditto	24
1	ditto	25

16 Commissioners in all, whereas as a fact they only returned 9.

These figures, I think, show conclusively that had the Europeans organised, the new Act would have fully done all that was expected of it. The fact that several of the European voters were dead in no way affects the result, because at least as large a proportion of native voters were dead, and the dead voter almost in every instance represents a living voter, who could have obtained a vote had he cared to apply for it. It is only where native owners or occupiers of houses have been succeeded by European owners or occupiers, or the reverse, and that the obsolete character of the list makes any difference, and this would not practically affect the result.

26. Nothing is further from my intention than to find fault with the European community for its inertia. It is obvious that it does not want the elective system. It would much rather have the number of members which are to be regarded as its share of the Corporation fixed by law, as was at first, proposed, and then have those members nominated by Government and the leading European Associations. It cannot be expected that busy men will trouble themselves with looking after their votes at a municipal election, but I do think that as the electoral system has been introduced, and is part of the law of Calcutta, the leading Associations might have combined together to see that the Act was worked properly, that votes were claimed, circulars under section 24 answered, candidates brought forward suitable to the wards for which they stood, and the other measures taken without which no elective machinery can be expected to work. In 1865 when it was at first proposed to fix by law the numbers of each community, the proposal was to constitute the Corporation of—

33 Hindoos.
12 Mahomedans.
27 Europeans and others.
72

Had the European votes been made the most, there would on the present occasion have been 16 elected for wards,
10 elected for special constituencies,
6 nominated.
29 out of 75, or rather more than was originally looked upon as the ideal proportion.

27. Annexure E shows the number of persons voting in each ward nationality by nationality; it is only of interest if analysed minutely as owing to there not having been an election in every ward any inference drawn from the totals is fallacious. In general, however, it shows that where an election was held, the Mahomedans were the most ready to go to the poll and the Europeans the most backward.

Other details.

28. Annexure F shews the details of the plural votes; out of 11,664 voters 695 had the maximum of ... ... 12 votes

695	had the maximum of	12 votes
70	ditto	11 "
211	ditto	10 "

724	ditto	6 "
419	ditto	5 "
1,878	ditto	4 "
2,034	ditto	3 "

As already said, the plural system worked very well and complicated, as it may have appeared, and, as it was pronounced to be by many critics, no hitch occurred anywhere.

29. Section 24, the section under which all pluralities of persons who have a vote can appoint a representative to vote for them, would, as already said, have worked very well, if all such pluralities had filled up the form sent to them and returned it. Annexure B will show ward by ward the number that did so, the total being 2,716 forms sent and 1,362 or as nearly as possible 50 per cent. returned. Of these 2,716, more than two-thirds were in the four riparian wards, viz :—

263 in ward No. 2

928 do. 7 (Burra Bazar).
327 do. 12 (Dalhousie Square).

But while out of 1,516 in wards 2, 5 and 7, 991, or 65 per cent. replied, in the European ward No. 12 only 80, out of 327 or less than 25 replied. The Act does not say what is to be done in the case of those who do not reply, and therefore their names were altogether omitted. I propose to meet this in future by ascertaining, at the time of giving a license to each firm, the name of their representative for voting purposes, and entering this name in the list in lieu of such firms as leave the form unfilled up.

30. It was in connection with this section that a case was brought before the High Court to set the result of the voting in one ward as declared by me. The rule at first granted was discharged, and the result announced by me sustained, but the Court apparently considered the section defective, because it did not restrict the choice of representatives, allowing a firm therefore to appoint any one disconnected with them, even the agent for a candidate, as their representative. The Judge also did me an injustice if he is correctly reported to have said that I ought to have held my hand and not sent in the list of valid votes until the rule had been heard, as was, if I recollect right, stated in my affidavit. I sent in the list to the Calcutta Gazette and posted it up in the office before I heard that a rule was applied for, still less granted.

Case in High Court.

31. As regard the defect in the law, I submit that, so far from it being a serious blot, it is a defect of the most insignificant kind. Hitherto all voters have been allowed to vote by voting paper, and if the section is abused to the utmost possible extent, it cannot in substance amount to anything more than this that all Hindoo joint families, companies, firms, and other associations will practically be exempted from personal voting. Although had this been distinctly contemplated, it would have caused heart-burning and jealousies. I am by no means certain that it would not be a practical advantage.

32. So far as my testimony goes, which, if the most impartial, is certainly by far the best informed in this matter; the new system worked with unlooked-for success, considering that it was new and untried. The first list was produced in due course containing over 14,000 names, and if obsolete it was only as obsolete as were the registers it was intended to reproduce; 4,295 objections were received and disposed of by myself, aided to some extent by the Vice-Chairman, with much labour no doubt owing to their prodigious number, but with such success that not a single appeal was made to the Magistrate under section 23. The revised list was brought out in due course, in which, for the first time in any municipal election, every name given was that of a single identifiable individual. The new sections about proposing and seconding worked perfectly, and in the largest ward in the town as well as in 5 others, the expense and labour of taking a poll was saved. In the wards in which a poll did take place, all voters received postcards informing them of the polling station, the number of votes they might give, the names of the candidates and the method of voting. I visited nearly all the polling stations on the day of election, and found none of the confusion or disorder that might have been expected at a first experience. In one ward personation was carried on to some extent, but it cost the candidate, in whose interest it had been practised, his seat.

General smoothness with which the machinery worked.

33. The rules laid down by Government worked very well as far as my experience goes, but rule No. 11, regarding excess votes, ought on the next occasion to be altered. On the present occasion very few excess votes were given, and the rule worked substantial justice; but in future elections it would afford a means of withdrawing and cancelling votes which might be resorted to, to the annoyance of voters and candidates. The rule is that if a voter has, say, 5 votes and gives more to different candidates, as many votes are deducted from each candidate as will bring the votes within his voting power. This might and probably will be thus abused: A voter gives 5 votes as promised to the candidate he wishes to vote for. If his voting power is thereby exhausted, he can go without molestation, but if he can still give 4 or 5 votes to another candidate, and perhaps 3 to another, the agents will try and induce him by every possible means to do so, so as to cancel some of the votes

Government rules worked very well.

already given. The rule should be that the votes first given count in full. Many means could be arranged of determining which these are—

The extent to which voters try to obilge candidates and their agents is evident from this alone that a great many voters gave an equal number of votes to every candidates, in other words, paired against themselves!

34. I have every reason to hope that by the next election the registers will be very far more correct than at present, chiefly owing to this election and to the loss of many votes which failure to register has entailed. The system will be understood, and it may be hoped that the Associations, Europeans, Hindoos and Mahomedans, will interest themselves in putting forward good candidates and looking after the registration. The objection to personal voting will be much diminished, and the plural system is certain, from the evidence afforded by the present election, to become more and more popular. To my judgment the elections which have just terminated afford the best possible augury of the success of the new system, and this, I think, would be the verdict of every one who has had any experience of contrasting their working with that of the system which they superseded.

ANNEXURE A.

ANNEXURE C.

NOTIFICATION.

The January 1889.—It is hereby notified for general information that, under the power vested in him by section 19 of Act II (B.C.) of 1888, the Lieutenant-Governor has been pleased to prescribe the following rules for the election of the Commissioners for the Town of Calcutta.

Rules under Section 19, Act II (B.C.) of 1888, which it is proposed to submit to Government for adoption.

1. The first election of Commissioners under Act II (B.C.) of 1888 shall take place on 15th March 1889.

2. The polling shall take place at such stations as the Chairman may determine as soon as the word for which contests will take place under section 31 are known. Notice of the places fixed upon shall be given by advertisement in the Municipal Office and in at least two daily newspapers not later than the 11th March.

3. The Commissioners of the Town of Calcutta shall appoint a polling officer to preside at each station, and as many assistant polling officers as they may think requisite, and may pay to each officer so appointed such reasonable remuneration for his services as they may think fit.

4. The Chairman shall supply to each polling officer a sufficient number of copies of so much of the list of voters revised in accordance with section 22, Act II (B.C.) of 1888, as may relate to the wards for which such polling officer is appointed to take votes, and no vote shall be received by the polling officer or his assistants, unless the name of the voter is entered in such list. The Chairman shall also furnish the polling officer with the names of the candidates for each ward as announced in accordance with section 31 of the above Act, and no vote shall be received in favour of any person other than one of such candidates.

5. All votes must be given at the poll on forms to be provided by the Chairman at the polling stations. Separate forms easily distinguishable shall be provided for each candidate, and the voter, unless he declares himself unable to write, shall write in his own hand, in the presence of the polling officer or one of his assistants, his own name, the name of the candidate for whom he votes, and the number of votes given for him. If he declares himself unable to write, the names and number shall be written at the dictation of the voter by the polling officer or one of his assistants, and such polling officer or assistant shall in that case append his own signature to the form.

6. The Chairman shall circulate to the voters of all wards for which there will be a poll under section 31, a post-card containing in English the name of the voter, the number of votes he is entitled to give, the names of the candidates for his ward, the polling station, and such other directions as the Chairman may think fit; such post-card shall be posted not less than two nor more than seven days before the date of election.

7. The post-card shall also advice the addressee to bring it with him to the poll as a help to identification, and if so brought, it shall be attached to the voting paper.

8. If a voter gives some of his votes to one candidate and others to one or more other candidates, he shall fill up a separate voting paper for each candidate for whom he votes.

9. It shall be the duty of the polling officer or one of his assistants to satisfy himself—

(1) That the name of the voter is entered in the list;

(2) That the voting paper is filled up in the manner prescribed in rule 5;

(3) That the name of the candidate voted for corresponds with the form assigned for such candidate;

(4) That the post-card, if brought by the voter, is attached to his voting paper or one of his voting papers;

(5) That the voter has not given more votes than he is entitled to.

10. No objection shall be taken at the polling station to the name of any voter entered in the list or to the number of votes assigned to him, but if any objection is taken to the identity of any voter, it shall be recorded on the back of the voting paper by the polling officer or his assistant.

11. If any voter gives more votes than he is entitled to, and the mistake escapes detection till after the voter has left the poll, a sufficient equal number of votes shall be deducted from each candidate voted for to bring the number of votes within the number allotted to the voter.

Illustration.—A, being entitled to 6 votes, gives 8 votes to X; 2 shall be deducted.

B, being entitled to 4 votes, gives 5 to X and 3 to Y; 3 votes shall be allowed to X and 1 to Y.

C, being entitled to 7 votes, gives 4 to X, 4 to Y, and 3 to Z; 2 shall be allowed to X, 2 to Y, and 1 to Z, and 2 votes be lost.

12. The polling shall commence at 9 A.M. and close at 6 P.M., and if it cannot be finished for any ward by that hour, it shall be continued on the following day at 9 till finished.

13. The polling officer shall be entrusted with the maintenance of order at the polling station, and all voters shall, while at or near the polling station, comply with all reasonable orders issued by him for the preservation of order.

14. At the close of the poll for each ward, the polling officer shall forward to the Chairman the voting papers which have been received by him duly sealed and secured, sending the voting papers to which objections have been taken separately from those to which no objections have been taken.

15. All claims or objections preferred under section 21 shall be decided by the Chairman ward by ward, and he shall give such notice in the Municipal Office of the date of hearing for each ward as may be practicable. Such hearing shall be conducted with open doors in order that any intending candidates or their agents may be present, and the Chairman shall hear any person present who asks to be heard before disposing of such claim or objection.

16. After the publication of the revised list under section 22, further objections to the list may be taken on the following grounds:—

(a) That the voter is dead or is a woman or has not attained the age of 21 years;

(b) That the voter is the same as another person whose name is on the list, and ought to appear only once on the list;

(c) That the voter, though purporting to be authorised to vote under section 24 on behalf of a Hindu joint family, company, firm, or other association of persons, is not duly authorised;

(d) Such objection must be in writing and must be delivered to the Chairman on or before the 14th March.

17. Such objections, as well as all objections under rules 10 or 11, shall be heard by the Chairman after the date of election, and the provisions of rule 15 shall apply to the hearing of the objections.

18. The Chairman shall, as soon as practicable, after disposing of objections under the last preceding rule, published at the Principal Office and in the Calcutta Gazette—

(a) The names of all candidates elected for wards for which there was no polling as provided in section 24;

(b) The names of all candidates for wards for which there has been polling, together with the number of valid votes given for each candidate, and the two candidates who have obtained the majority of valid votes shall be deemed to be duly elected Commissioners.

19. Except as otherwise provided in section 28, the Chairman's decision in all matters connected with the preparation of the list of voters and the validity of votes shall be final for the purposes of the election.

20. The following penalties are imposed for breach of these rules:—

(a) For signing a name other than the writer's own name on a voting form under rule 5, or for giving a name other than the voter's own name to the polling officer or assistant polling officer, a fine not exceeding Rs. 200.

(b) For intercepting a post-card or intentionally hindering the delivery of a post-card addressed to a voter under rule 6, a fine not exceeding Rs. 100.

(c) For taking away a post-card from a voter after it has reached him without his consent, a fine not exceeding Rs. 100.

(d) For refusing to obey the reasonable orders or directions of a polling officer under rule 13, a fine not exceeding Rs. 50.

(e) For tampering with any voting paper after it has been duly filled up and before the result of the election is declared under rule 18, a fine not exceeding Rs 200.

N. B.—The word Chairman in these rules includes any other officer appointed under sections 27 or 28 of Act II (B.C.) of 1888.

H. J. S. COTTON,

Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE MONTH OF APRIL 1889.

THE month of April in Bengal is noticeable as being almost the hottest of the whole year, and it is usually characterised by steadily increasing temperature, with decreasing pressure, the decreasing pressure being brought about by a series of oscillations, in which the downward movement is greater than the upward. Hot weather storms or nor'-westers are generally rather frequent in this month. For some days before they occur the barometer falls streadily, and sometimes largely in Bengal, and probably over Northern India. The moist and fairly cool southerly or sea winds blowing across the Bengal and Orissa coasts also increase in force. At the same time hot dry westerly and north-westerly winds blow steadily from Central India over a considerable part of the west and centre of the province, while moist easterly winds also blow down the Assam Valley. Bengal thus becomes a focus towards which these three wind systems, opposed in character and direction, converge, and it is apparently by their interaction that the usual hot weather storms are formed. At such periods pressure oscillates rather rapidly, and the changes at neighbouring stations are unequal, showing that the atmosphere is in a disturbed state, and more or less numerous thunderstorms with rain occur. Each storm is generally confined to a narrow area, and its existence is brief, and so far as is known they do not travel, as violent storms, more than about 30 or 40 miles. These storms form the only source of rain in Bengal during April. The rainfall brought by these storms is therefore very irregularly distributed; but, roughly speaking, the falls are greatest in the districts of East and North Bengal bordering on the Himalayas, and in the Assam and Arakan Hills, while the rainfall is least in the western districts generally, and in Behar and Central Bengal. Thus the normal rainfall in East and North Bengal varies from about two and-a-half to three and-a-half inches; in South-West Bengal it is about two inches; in Orissa rather more than an inch; while in Behar and Chutia Nagpur it equals about half an inch.

Meteorology of the month.—Conditions have been somewhat abnormal during almost the whole month, the peculiarities being the defective rainfall and constant high temperature. From week to week temperature has continued high, the only case of normal temperature occurring in one or two districts towards the middle of the month. Pressure was in defect on the 7th and 8th, again on the occasion of a small depression on the 20th and 21st, and during the last few days of the month. In the early part of the month weather was fairly normal, temperature and pressure were in excess, and strong winds were blowing on the coast. This continued till the end of the first week, when pressure fell, and local storms with rain became general over almost the whole province; the exception being Behar, where scarcely any rain fell. Normal weather began again on the 13th, but it lasted for two days only. From the 15th up till the 19th storms occurred every day in East Bengal, North Bengal, and in some parts of South-West Bengal and Orissa. Even in these districts, where light rain was falling every day, the normal amount for the week was not received. The storms were generally unimportant and not of any great violence, but in the Rajshahye district on the 15th one of those local storms developed to such an extent as to become of almost tornado violence. Pressure changes during that period were small, but the winds were somewhat abnormal, directions being very variable during the three days from the 14th to the 16th, and the easterly element strongly predominating. On the 20th and 21st there was a rapid fall of pressure, giving a small low-pressure area over Bengal. The rapid rise that followed gave abnormally high pressure over part of the province, and local storms occurred in East and North Bengal. These storms were caused by a north-westerly wind setting in on the 24th, the south-west wind which had been previously blowing diminishing greatly in force on the rapid rise of pressure which began on the 23rd. Temperature kept on increasing, and the excess became large towards the end of the month. East Bengal again received local showers for a day or two about the 28th, and though some showers fell elsewhere, the amount of rain was very small. There have therefore been four periods of disturbed weather during the month, chiefly confined to East and North Bengal, and between these periods high pressure and temperature have everywhere obtained, more especially towards the end of the month.

Pressure.—Pressure changes have been generally unimportant, the only cases of rapid falls occurring at the beginning of the periods of disturbed conditions, four of which have been noticed above. During the first week of the month, pressure was about 0·05 inch above the normal, and changes were those characteristic of the hot weather. On the 7th and 8th a rapid fall occurred, but the excess was quickly restored, and during the following week increased to more than a tenth of an inch. On the 16th and 17th pressure again fell below the normal. The most rapid changes of the month commenced on the 20th, when a fall of about a tenth of an inch was uniform over nearly the whole province. It continued a little less rapidly the following day, and the pressure became nearly two-tenths in defect. On the 23rd and 24th the rapid rise of between two and three-tenths of an inch brought pressure again considerably in excess After that a fall set in which continued till the 29th. During the last few days of the month pressure was considerably in defect. For the whole month pressure was very nearly normal in South-West Bengal and Orissa. In other districts there was a slight excess of about two hundredths of an inch. The monthly mean pressure for Assam differs very little from the normal.

Temperature.—One of the most pronounced features of the month's meteorology has, as stated above, been the very high temperature which continued through the whole month. Large local falls took place after storms, but notwithstanding these the mean temperature for the different districts was generally in excess. During the first week the excess was one to two degrees, and it increased during the second week, but temperature afterwards became very nearly normal. The most important changes were those which set in during the last part of the month when temperature became everywhere high, and the excess amounted in some cases to over 8°. Maximum temperature has been frequently over 100°, and at Burdwan, Cuttack, and Balasore has been over 110°. The mean for the month is over 2° in excess in all districts except Orissa, Chutia Nagpur, and Assam, where the excess is between 1·5° and 2°.

In the table below are given the variations of the actual maximum, minimum, and mean temperatures from the normal for each week of the month at nine typical stations in different districts of the province, and the figures will show clearly how largely temperature has been in excess, and also the general variations of the temperature from the normal:—

Rainfall.—The number of rainy days and the quantity of rain which has fallen during April have both been defective, especially the latter. East Bengal is the only district that has received nearly its normal amount of rainfall. In South-West and North Bengal the rainfall amounts to about half the normal. Behar has been practically rainless. As stated above, there have been four periods during which local storms have occurred, but it was only between the 9th and 12th that they were at all general over the province. At other times rain was confined almost entirely to East Bengal, North Bengal, and part of South-West Bengal. In East Bengal 3·24 inches fell, in North and South-West Bengal a little over an inch, in Orissa and Chutia Nagpur about half an inch, and in Behar only three or four hundredths of an inch.

Heavy rain fell in Assam—in Sibsagor over 8 inches and in Silchar over 13 inches.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province for the month of April 1889:—

Explanation.—Summary.—The normal means of air pressure and temperature are the arithmetical average or means of the reading during the same period for the last ten years. The humidity of the atmosphere is expressed at percentage, saturated air being presented by 100. A clear sky is denoted by 0 and an overcast sky by 10. The number are the numerical means or average of the rainfall in that district determined from the returns sent in by the sub-divisional station for the period in question during the past 21 stations in the district sending in returns divided by the number of stations. A rainy day is one on which at least hundredth of an inch fell.

for the week ending Friday, the 10th of May 1889.

CALCUTTA, the 14*th May* 1889.

SUMMARY OF THE RAINFALL AND METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE WEEK ENDING FRIDAY, THE 10TH MAY 1889.

At the close of the previous week the general meteorological conditions which obtained were those of the hot weather in a very pronounced form. Throughout the present week these conditions have remained quite unaltered, and from its commencement up to its close the mean temperature of the province has been largely in excess of the normal. On Saturday, the 4th, pressure was falling at all stations except those in the west of the province, and as the fall was rather large in Assam and North Bengal, the deficiency of pressure over that area was increased, and thus the distribution of pressure was such that, while in Orissa and also at some of the stations in the south-west and south-east of the province pressure was above the normal, in North Bengal a defect of more than a tenth of an inch was recorded. Baric gradients over the province were therefore unusually steep, and perhaps this fact may account for the unusually strong southerly and south-westerly winds which were blowing at the head of the Bay and in South Bengal at this time, and which have continued to blow for practically the whole of the week. Temperature over the greater part of the province was also unusually high, the excess in the mean temperature ranging up to between 7° and 8° in South-West Bengal. On the 5th pressure rose slowly at most stations, but the general distribution remained unaltered, and pressure was still abnormally low in the north of the province. Very strong moist winds continued to blow at the head of the Bay, wind velocity at Saugor Island averaging 34 miles an hour. Temperature had risen still further on this day, and many stations in South-West Bengal showed mean temperatures from 10° to 12° in excess of the normal. A further rise of pressure took place on the 6th, and pressure became above the normal over the greater part of the province, and on this day the excess temperature became rather smaller. From the 7th pressure commenced to fall slowly up till the end of the week, when again a distribution of pressure obtained which was similar to that described at the commencement of the week. At the south-western, southern and south-eastern stations pressure was in excess of the normal by amounts ranging up to about 0·04 inch; while, on the other hand, at the stations in the centre and north of the province, pressure was below the normal by amounts which in many cases equalled nearly a tenth of an inch. Unusually steep baric gradients therefore again obtained, and winds were fairly strong over the whole province; a southerly and south-westerly current blowing in the south-western and southern districts, a southerly and south-easterly current in East Bengal, and easterly winds generally at the northern stations. The indraught over the land from the sea was at this time particularly strong, and from the 9th to the 10th the wind velocity at Saugor Island averaged 35 miles an hour, which almost amounts to a gale of wind. Very high temperatures continued to accompany these conditions, and the general mean temperature of the province at the close of the week was about 6° in excess of the normal.

These conditions have been unfavourable for the occurrence of local storms or nor'-westers over the greater part of the province for the week. In East and North Bengal conditions have been somewhat more favourable, and here local storms with rain have been rather numerous, particularly during the early part of the week; but even in these areas many districts have received practically no rain. A few local storms have also occurred in the central and southern districts of South-West Bengal, but the whole of the remainder of the province has been practically rainless.

Pressure.—The main changes of pressure for the past seven days have been already alluded to. The distribution of pressure during the week has been similar to that which has existed now for some time, and has been decidedly abnormal from the fact that what almost amounts to a barometric depression has existed over the interior of the province. The feeble depression has generally occupied the area at the foot of the hills in North Behar and North Bengal, though it has moved sometimes towards the centre and west of the province. For the entire week the mean pressure of the whole of the province of Bengal has been about 0·013 inch in excess of the normal; but this excess is very unequally distributed, and in fact in some districts pressure is in defect. Defective pressures exceeding 0·02 inch are reported from Julpigoree, Chupra, Buxar, and Bhagulpore, while pressure has been in excess of the normal at such stations as Cuttack, False Point, Saugor Island, and Chittagong by more than 0·04 inch.

Temperature—As already stated, has been excessive, and throughout the week the mean temperature of the whole of the province of Bengal has averaged no less than six degrees in excess of the normal, while in South-West Bengal the excess amounts to almost eight degrees. The mean temperature (i.e., the mean of the daily maximum and minimum temperatures) of the stations in Chutia Nagpur, South-West Bengal, and South Behar has averaged about 93°, in North Bengal and Orissa it has averaged 87°, and in East Bengal about 85°. In Assam, on the other hand, temperature has been normal, and the mean tempera ure there only equals 77°.

Rainfall.—East Bengal has received an average fall of 1·30 inches of rain during the week, which is a little more than half the normal fall. North Bengal has reported an average of 0·64 inch, which is only about one-third of the normal, but in other districts rainfall has been practically absent.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Friday, the 10th May 1889 :—

* A special census of the Europeans in the Darjiling Municipality was recently taken, as the census of this section of the community, taken in February 1881, was not reliable owing to the Europeans being at a minimum in that month. The number of the natives remains as before, as it was not necessary to re-census them. The ratios have consequently been calculated on the revised population under all heads in the above table except "Age," the ratios under which have been omitted, inasmuch as the census of

CALCUTTA;
The 15th May 1889.

G. A. G. SHAWE,
Under-Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

General remarks on the fluctuation of principal staples carried over the East Indian Railway during five weeks ended 30*th March* 1889.

INCREASES.

Coal and coke.—There was an increase in both the upwards and downwards traffic; that in the former was due to a large demand both by foreign railways and the public. In downwards traffic the increase may be ascribed chiefly to larger takings of coal by steamers, and also to brick-burning operations in connection with the Kidderpore Docks.

Cotton.—The increase under this head was due to despatches to Howrah for export.

Piece-goods, European.—This was chiefly in despatches from Howrah, and the increase was general.

Gunny.—Principally in long distance despatches from Howrah and adjacent stations for Cawnpore. Hathras, Delhi, and the Oudh and Rohilkhund and North-Western Railways.

Wheat.—The increase was principally in long distance traffic to Howrah, and was due to a fair demand in Calcutta.

Opium.—Due to despatches of manufactured opium from Patna and Tarighat having been delayed till March.

Stone.—This is in continuation of the increase reported for February.

DECREASES.

Fruits, other kinds.—Chiefly in betel-nuts from Calcutta, and hurra from stations on the Allahabad district.

Gram and pulses—

Other rain and spring crops.—There were large decreases at Bhagalpur, Mokameh and Barh owing to there not being the same surplus as in 1888, while up-country demands were less.

Rice (husked and unhusked).—There was an increase in weight carried, but decrease in earnings. The former was due to good crops in the neighbourhood of Burdwan, Raneegunge, and other stations on the Howrah district, and to a good demand in Calcutta; while the decreased earnings are explained by the circumstances that as with gram, pulses, and other grains, the up-country demand was limited, and there was therefore practically no long lead traffic during the month.

Hides.—The decrease under this head was principally from Delhi for Calcutta, owing to accumulations in Calcutta of North-Western descriptions, and the absence of demand causing prices to recede below sellers' views.

Iron.—Due to an exceptionally large traffic in iron during March 1888.

Railway material—Foreign.—This was due to considerable despatches of material for the Indian Midland Railway having been made viâ Jubbulpore to Jhansi last year.

Salt.—There was an increase in the despatches of imported salt from Howrah, counterbalanced by decreased receipts of country salt at Agra and Delhi for onwards carriage.

Seeds.—The decrease was in linseed, mustard and raposeed and other oilseeds, and was due to limited demand from Europe and short stocks up-country.

Sugar and jaggree.—There was an increase in weight carried, attended with a decrease in earnings, and the former was due to short distance despatches from Delhi to Etawah and Firozabad principally; from viâ Ghaziabad to the same and other stations on the Tundla district, and from Delhi Shadara. The decreased earnings were partly due to diversion by the Indian Midland Railway.

Tobacco.—Due to the crops having been seriously injured by a hailstorm in February last.

APPENDIX TO

The Calcutta Gazette.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 15, 1889.

NOTIFICATION.

No. 67 Marine, dated Calcutta, the 13th May 1889.

By the Govt. of Bengal, P. W. Dept.

UNDER section 10 of the Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1859, the Lieutenant-Governor is pleased, with the sanction of the Governor-General in Council, to make the following rules for the conduct of examinations for Masters and Mates of foreign-going ships and as to the qualifications to be required. These rules are in supersession of the rules issued under the notification dated the 28th of August 1877.

Certificates granted to persons who pass examinations.

1. Certificates of Competency will be granted to those persons who pass the requisite examinations, and otherwise comply with the requisite conditions. For this purpose examiners have been appointed, and arrangements have been made for holding the examinations periodically at the port of Calcutta. The examinations will be held twice a quarter, or at such other times as the Government may appoint.

Examinations continued till all the Candidates are examined.

2. The examinations will commence early in the forenoon, and will be continued from day to day until all the Candidates whose names appear upon the Port Officer's list on the day of examination are examined.

Notice of application for examination to be given to the Port Officer.

3. Candidates for examination must make their application upon the appropriate Form (Exn. 2), which must be filled up at the Port Office. The Exn. 2, properly filled in, together with the Candidate's testimonials and discharges, must be lodged with the Port Officer of Calcutta not later than the day before the day of examination, and the Candidate must conform to any regulations in this respect which may be laid down by the Government, as, if this be not done, delay may be occasioned.

Testimonials of character, conduct, and ability required.

4. Testimonials of character, and of sobriety, experience, ability, and good conduct on board ship for at least the twelve months of service immediately preceding the date of application to be examined, will be required of all applicants, and without producing them no person will be examined. As such testimonials and discharges may have to be verified before the Candidate can be examined, it is desirable that they should be handed in together with the Form, Exn. 2, as early as possible.

Testimonials of Foreigners.

5. The testimonials of servitude of Foreigners, and of British Seamen serving in foreign vessels, which cannot be verified by the Port Officer, must be confirmed either by the Consul of the country to which the ship in which the Candidate served belonged, or by some other recognized official authority of that country, or by the testimony of some credible person on the spot having personal knowledge of the facts required to be established. The production, however, of such proofs will not of necessity be deemed sufficient. Each case will be decided on its own merits, and if the sufficiency of the proofs given appears to be at all doubtful, it must be referred to the Government.

Certificates as to age.

6. Should any doubt exist as to the age of a Candidate, he will be required to produce a certificate of birth or baptism.

Foreigners to know English.

7. Foreigners must prove to the satisfaction of the Examiners that they can speak and write the English language sufficiently well to perform the duties required of them on board a British Vessel. In the case of natives of India, who may not be able to speak English, their Certificates will be endorsed to the effect that they are only valid for vessels manned and officered entirely by Asiatics.

8. The time for which length of service as Seaman or Officer in the Mercantile Marine is to be reckoned in all cases referred to in the following paragraphs is to commence at the date when the Articles of Agreement were signed by the Applicant, and to end at the date when he was discharged as shown on the Articles of Agreement. The Certificates of Discharge will generally be sufficient evidence of this, but great care must be exercised by the Port Officer and Examiners to detect any tampering in any way with the information contained in them, and to report to the Government at once any suspicious cases.

Verification of services, &c, by Articles.

9. Services, which cannot be verified by proper Entries in the Articles of the Ships in which the Candidates have served, cannot be counted. For instance, a man will state his service to have been as Second or Only Mate, and to support his assertion will produce a Certificate of Discharge or of employment by the Master, to the effect that he served as Mate, when, on reference to the Articles, it appears that he has actually been rated as Boatswain; the service in such a case will not be regarded as having been in the capacity of Mate.

10. Whenever a man has, from any cause, been regularly promoted on a vacancy in the course of the Voyage from the rank in which he first shipped, and such promotion, with the ground on which it has been made, is properly entered in the Articles and in the Official Log Book, he will of course receive credit for his service in the higher grade for the period subsequent to his promotion.

Promotion during Voyage

11. Service in the coasting trade may be allowed to count as service, in order to qualify a Candidate for examination for a Certificate of Competency for Foreign-going Ships, it being understood, however, that service in the coasting trade must amount to half as much again as service in the foreign trade, and that service in a lower grade than that of First or Only Mate in the coasting trade will not be recognised as officer's service.

Service in the coasting trade

12. Three years' service as Mate in the coasting trade, together with at least nine months' service as Master, may be allowed to count as service for a Master's Certificate, provided the Candidates' entire service at sea calculated as above is sufficient, and that his services as Mate and Master in the coasting trade can be proved by the Articles, and provided he has already passed an examination for the Foreign Trade, unless, under special circumstances, the Government see fit to dispense with this latter provision.

13. Service in Pleasure Yachts under 80 tons, if performed within Home Trade limits, will not be accepted towards qualifying a Candidate for examination.

14. Service in Pleasure Yachts will not be accepted at all unless verified by satisfactory proofs, and it must be distinctly understood that accepted service is confined to actual sea service, service in harbour or port being inadmissible. See also para. 21.

15. Time for which Indentures of Apprenticeship are in force will be accepted as sea service, provided that the Apprentice has remained by the ship for at least four-fifths of the time covered by the Indentures, and the Indentures of the applicant are endorsed by the Owner or Master to whom he has been bound, to the effect that he has performed his service faithfully for the whole time agreed upon.

Service as an Apprentice.

16. Service as Third or Fourth Mate may be accepted as equivalent to service as Second Mate to qualify a Candidate for examination for a Certificate of Competency as First Service as 3rd or 4th Mate to qualify for 1st Mate.

Mate, provided he is able to produce a satisfactory testimonial from the Master or owner of the vessel in which the service was performed, showing that he has had charge of a watch while serving as such Third or Fourth Mate, and that during the whole of the time claimed he was in possession of a Second Mate's Certificate of Competency, valid in the United Kingdom.

Service as 3rd or 4th Mate to qualify for Master.

17. Service as Third or Fourth Mate may also be accepted on the same conditions to qualify a Candidate for examination for a Master's Certificate of Competency, provided he can produce satisfactory evidence of his having served at sea 12 months as Second Mate of a Foreign-going Ship while in possession of a First Mate's Certificate of Competency, valid in the United Kingdom. If a Candidate has had no service as First Mate he must have been six and-a-half years at sea, of which two and-a-half years must have been as Mate of a lower grade under the above-named conditions. It will also be noted that occasional service in charge of a watch in the daytime will not be accepted as Mate's service under the Regulations.

Service on board a Training Ship.

18. Part of the time served on board a training ship will be allowed to count as service at sea, provided that the Candidate can produce amongst his testimonials a Certificate from the Committee that he has conducted himself creditably, and passed a good examination in seamanship so far as practised in the training ship as well as in other matters down to the time of his leaving the ship.

19. No period of service on board a training ship will be allowed to count for more than one year's sea service, nor can it be accepted as equivalent to service in square-rigged vessels.

Service in Auxiliary Screw Whaling ships.

20. Service in Auxiliary Screw Whaling Ships and other Vessels with auxiliary steam power, which use their screws only in calms or during light winds, is considered as service performed in Sailing Vessels. Such service is not to be accepted in cases where service on board Foreign-going Steam-ships is required.

Service in Trawlers, Yachts, &c.

21. Service performed in Trawlers, Yachts, &c., alone will not qualify a Candidate for examination for a Foreign-going Certificate. He must show that he has served, in addition thereto, 18 months in an ordinary trading vessel.

Service in capacities other than as Apprentice or Seaman.

22. Candidates whose services have been in capacities other than Apprentice, Ordinary Seaman, or Able Seaman, e.g., Cook, Steward, Carpenter, &c., will be required to satisfy the Port Officer that they have a good knowledge of Seamanship. This may possibly be proved by the production of satisfactory Certificates from Masters with whom the Applicants have served. Failing satisfactory evidence, the Applicant may be required to perform additional service, which must be in the capacity of Ordinary Seaman or Able Seaman.

23. Service performed on rivers, no matter of what size, or in smooth-water or partially smooth-water cannot be accepted.

Service on rivers and in smooth waters.

24. A person who has lost the sight of one eye cannot be allowed to be examined for a Certificate of Competency. If he already holds a Certificate, he will not be allowed to be examined for a Certificate of a higher grade.

Loss of sight.

25. Service in Light Ships or in an Engine-room will not be accepted as sea service for a Master's or Mate's Certificate of Competency.

Service in Light Ships and Engine-room.

26. In the case of service on board Excursion Steamers only, such service as has been performed actually at sea can be accepted.

27. A First Class Pilot, with one year's Sea Service since he obtained his Pilot's Certificate, may be examined for a First Mate's Certificate for Foreign-going Ships. A Hooghly Master Pilot is for the purpose of this rule to be considerd a First Class Pilot.

28. Half the amount of service performed as an Apprentice in a Pilot Vessel propelled by sails may count as actual Sea—Service to qualify for examination for a Certificate of Competency.

Services as Pilot's Apprentice.

29. Candidates who have neglected to join their vessels after having signed Articles, or who have deserted their vessels after having joined, or who have been found guilty of gross misconduct on board, will be required to produce satisfactory proofs of two years' subsequent service and good conduct at sea, unless the Local Government after having investigated the matter should see fit to reduce the time.

Desertion and gross misconduct.

30. If after a Candidate has passed his Examination it is discovered on further investigation, e.g., by verification on the part of the Port Officer, that his services are insufficient to entitle him to receive a Certificate of the grade for which he has passed, it will not be granted to him; but if the Government is satisfied that the error in the calculation of his services did not occur through any fault or wilful misrepresentation on his part, he will be allowed to go up for re-examination without payment of further fee when he has performed the amount of service in which he was deficient.

If after passing examination services are found to have been insufficient.

31. If, in such a case, the applicant's services are sufficient to entitle him to receive a Certificate of a lower grade, provided as aforesaid he has not wilfully misrepresented the amount of his services, an Inferior Certificate may be granted to him, and the difference, if any, between the fee paid by him for the Superior Certificate and the fee payable for the Inferior Certificate, may be placed to his credit.

Certificate of a lower grade may be granted on certain conditions.

32. In such a case when the applicant has by further service made up the amount in which he was found to be short, he must, before he can receive the higher Certificate, be re-examined in all the subjects.

Must be re-examined for certificate of higher grade.

Colour Tests.

33. The Government have made the following arrangements for the Examination of persons as to their ability to distinguish Colours :—*

34. Examinations in Colour are open to any person serving or about to serve in the Mercantile Marine.

35. Any person, including the holders of Certificate of Competency, or persons about to apply for Certificates of Competency, if desirous of being examined in colours only, must make application to the Port Officer on Form Exn. 2[a], and pay a fee of one rupee.

36. He must on the appointed day attend for examination at the Examiner's Office; and if he passes he will receive a Certificate to that effect.

37. If he fails it will be open to him to be examined again in Colours as often as he pleases on payment of the fee of one rupee at each fresh attempt.

38. The application of a Candidate who is presenting himself for Examination for a Master's or Mate's Certificate must be made on Form Exn. 2.—Such examination will commence with the Colour test; and if the Candidate does not, at the time of making application, hold a Certificate of Competency of any grade, and should fail to distinguish correctly any one of the colours used in the test, he will not be allowed to proceed with the examination in Navigation and Seamanship.

39. The fee he has paid for Examination for a Certificate of Competency will include the fee for the Colour test, and, with the exception of one rupee, will, in such event, be returned to him.

40. A Candidate for Examination for a Certificate of Competency who, at the time of making application, does not possess a Certificate, and who fails to pass the colour test, may not be re-examined until after the lapse of three months from the date of his first failure. If he fails a second time, he will be allowed a third trial at the expiration of another three months from the date of his second failure. A fresh fee must be paid at each succeeding examination.

41. It is therefore obviously to the advantage of Candidates for Certificates of Competency to apply in the first instance to be examined in Colours only on Form 2[a].

42. A Candidate who holds a Certificate of Competency, and who, on presenting himself for Examination for a Certificate of a higher grade, is unable to pass the Colour test, will notwithstanding be permitted to proceed with the Examination in Navigation and Seamanship for the Certificate of the higher grade.

---

* See Appendix L.

43. Should he pass this Examination the following statement will be written on the face of the higher Certificate which may be granted to him, viz.: "This officer has failed to pass the 'Examination in Colours.'"

44. Should he ultimately fail to pass the Examination in Navigation and Seamanship a like statement, relating to his being Colour blind, will be made by the Port Officer on his existing Certificate before it is returned to him.

45. Holders of Certificates which bear the statement of their having failed to pass in Colours, and who may desire to have the statement removed from their Certificates, must obtain the special permission of the Government.

Only and First Mate.

50. AN ONLY AND FIRST MATE.—An Only Mate and a First Mate must be not less than nineteen years of age, and must have served five years at sea, of which in the case of a First Mate, one year must have been as Second or Only Mate. See also paras. 11, 16 and 27.

On and after the 1st June 1889, no Candidate will be allowed to be examined unless he has served at sea two years within the last six years, and six months within the last three years immediataly preceding the date of his application to be examined.

A Candidate for an Ordinary Certificate of any grade, who does not already hold an Ordinary Certificate of a lower grade, must prove that he has served 12 months in a square-rigged sailing vessel within the last five years.

IN NAVIGATION.—In addition to the qualifications required for a Second Mate, an Only and First Mate must be able to find the true bearing of the sun and the error of the ship's compass from an observed azimuth of the sun, both from an altitude and also from the "Time Azimuth Tables," and with the variation given compute the deviation; to find the latitude from a single altitude of the sun off the meridian, and be able to use and adjust the sextant,* and to find the index error by the sun; also to ascertain the true bearing of the sun, &c., and the ship's position by Sumner's Method by Projection.† He must also be conversant with the use of Mercator's Chart, and be able to find, on either a "true" or "magnetic" chart,‡ the course to steer and the distance from one given position to another; and find the ship's position on the chart from cross bearings of two objects; from two bearings of the same object, the course and distance run between taking the bearings being given; and the distance of ship from the object at the time of taking the second bearing. He must also understand how to keep a ship's Log Book. He will also be required to answer certain questions in writing (and orally) relative to cyclones or revolving storms.§

* See Appendix B.

53. A MASTER must be twenty-one years of age, and have been six years at sea, of which one year must have been as First or Only Mate in a Foreign-going Ship, and one year as Second or Only Mate; or he must have been six and-a-half years at sea, of which two and-a-half years must have been as Second Mate of a Foreign-going Ship, during the last twelve months of which service as Second Mate he must have been in possession of a First Mate's Certificate. Vide also paras. 11, 12 and 17.

On and after the 1st June 1889, no Candidate will be allowed to be examined unless he has served at sea two years within the last six years, and six months within the last three years immediately preceding the date of his application to be examined.

He must be able to find the magnetic bearing from equidistant compass bearings of any fixed object when at sea, and compute the deviation therefrom. He must construct a deviation curve upon a "Napier's" diagram, which will be furnished by the Examiner, and understand the practical application of the same, and give satisfactory written (and oral) answers to certain practical questions on the effect of the ship's iron upon the compasses, the method of determining the deviation, and compensating same by magnets and soft iron.* He will be required to find the course to steer by compass in order to counteract the effect of a given current, and find the distance the ship will make good towards a given point in a certain time and to work out practically the correction to apply to soundings taken at a given time and place to compare with the depth marked on the chart.†

He must explain the mode of procedure when placing ship in dry dock, directing repairs, and if putting in to port in distress with damage to cargo and ship. He must possess a sufficient knowledge of what he is required to do by law, as to entry and discharge, and the management of his crew, and as to penalties, and entries to be made in the official log, and a knowledge of the measures for preventing and checking the outbreak of scurvy on board ship, and the law as to load line marks, and the entries and reports to be made respecting them. He will be questioned as to his knowledge of invoices, charter party, bills-of-lading, Lloyd's agent, and as to the nature of bottomry, also bills-of-exchange, surveys, averages, &c., and must answer any other questions of a like nature appertaining to the management of a ship which the Examiners may consider it necessary to touch upon. He will also be required to give satisfactory answers as to his knowledge of the additional subjects (applying more particularly to steam-ships) which are specified in the Rules of Examination for Masters' Certificates of Competency for Foreign-going Steam-ships.

Certificates for Fore and Aft rigged Vessels.

Fore and Aft rigged ships

56. Certificates for the grades of Master, First Mate, Only Mate, and Second Mate, on which the words "for Fore and Aft rigged vessels only" will be written, will be issued to Candidates who have not complied with the regulation which requires them to have served at least one year in square-rigged sailing vessels, or who prove in course of examination that they are ignorant of the management of square-rigged ships.

57. A certificate "for Fore and Aft rigged vessels only" will not entitle the possessor to act in a capacity for which a certificate is required in square-rigged vessels, amongst which are classed full-rigged ships, barques, brig, barquentines, brigantines, and steam-ships carrying square sails.

58. A Candidate possessing a certificate "for Fore and Aft rigged vessels only," and desiring to obtain an ordinary certificate of the same grade, must prove that he has served at sea at least one year in a square-rigged sailing vessel, and will be re-examined both in navigation and seamanship.

Foreign-going Steam-Ships.

Qualifications for Certificates of Competency for Foreign-going Steam-ships only.

59. Certificates of Competency will be issued, subject to the examinations hereinafter described, for officers who have served in steam-ships, and who, owing to absence of service in square-rigged sailing ships, cannot under the existing regulations obtain Certificates of Competency to act in the capacity of Masters or Mates of square-rigged ships.

60. These certificates will entitle the holders to go to sea as Masters and Mates of foreign-going steam-ships, but will not entitle the holders to go to sea as Masters or Mates of foreign-going sailing ships.

61. There will be no distinction in respect of "Fore and Aft" and "Square-rigged" steam-ships.

Second Mate.

62. EXAMINATION IN COLOURS.—All Candidates for Certificates of Competency must pass the examination in Colours.

63. A SECOND MATE must be seventeen years of age, and must have been four years at sea. See also para. 11.

On and after the 1st June 1889, no candidate will be allowed to be examined unless he has served at sea two years within the last six years, and six months within the last three years immediately preceding the date of his application to be examined.

Any cases not coming within the above conditions must be submitted for the special consideration of the Government before the candidate is allowed to be examined.

64. IN NAVIGATION, &c.—He must write a legible hand and will be required to give in writing (vide supplementary vivâ voce test, page 39) definitions of various astronomical and other terms used in navigation.* He must have a competent knowledge of the first five rules of arithmetic, and the use of logarithms. He must be able to work a day's work complete, correcting the courses for deviation, leeway, and variation. He will be required to find the latitude by meridian altitude of the sun, and the difference of longitude from a given departure by a parallel sailing; also to find the course and distance from one position to another by Mercator's method. He will be required to find the time of high water at a given port, to observe and calculate the amplitude of the sun, and to find the error of the ship's compass therefrom, and also the deviation, the variation being given. He must be able to find the daily rate of the chronometer from error observed, and to find the longitude from altitude of the sun by the usual methods. He must understand the use of the sextant with its adjustments, and be able to observe with it, find the index error by the horizon, and read off and on the arc.* He must also pass a satisfactory examination in the International Code of Signals.†

65. In Seamanship, &c.—He must give satisfactory answers as to the standing and running rigging of steam-ships; as to bending, unbending, setting, reefing, taking in and furling sail; as to sending masts and yards up and down, &c., &c., as to seeing everything in readiness and clear for getting under way, and as to the precautions to be then observed with regard to engines, propellers, &c.; as to the management of a steam-ship when under canvas; and of a ship's boat in heavy weather, and as to dunnaging and stowing cargo, &c. He must have a thorough knowledge of the rule of the road as regards both steamers and sailing vessels, their regulation lights, and fog, and sound signals,‡ and be able to describe the signals of distress and the signals to be made by ships wanting a pilot, and the liabilities and penalties incurred by the misuse of these signals.§ He must be able to mark and use the lead and log lines. He must also understand the construction, use, and action of the sluices, and of the water-ballast tanks, engine-room, telegraph, &c.; the use and management of the rocket apparatus in the event of his vessel being stranded, and other questions of a like nature, appertaining to the duties of the Second Mate of a steam-ship, which the Examiners may think necessary to put to him.

Only and First Mate.

66. An ONLY and FIRST MATE.—An Only Mate must be nineteen years of age, and must have served five years at sea. A First Mate must be nineteen years of age, and must have served five years at sea, of which one year must have been as Second or Only Mate of a Foreign-going Steam-ship. See also paras. 11, 16 and 27.

On and after the 1st June 1889, no candidate will be allowed to be examined unless he has served at sea two years within the last three years immediately preceding the date of his application to be examined.

Any cases not coming within the above conditions must be submitted for the special consideration of the Government before the candidate is allowed to be examined.

67. In Navigation.—In addition to the qualifications required for a Second Mate, an Only or First Mate must be able to find the true bearing of the sun and the error of the ship's compass from an observed azimuth of the sun both from an altitude and also from the "Time Azimuth Tables," and with the variation given compute the deviation; to find the latitude from a single altitude of the sun off the meridian, and to be able to use and adjust the sextant,* and to find the index error by the sun; and also to ascertain the true bearing of the sun, &c., and the ship's position by Sumner's Method by Projection.† He must also be conversant with the use of Mercator's Chart, and be able to find on either a "true" or "magnetic" chart,‡ the course to steer and the distance from one given position to another; and find the ship's position on the chart from cross bearings of two objects; from two bearings of the same object, the course and distance run between taking the bearings being given; and the distance of ship from the object at the time of taking the second bearing. He must also understand how to keep a ship's Log Book. He will also be required to answer certain questions in writing (and orally) relating to cyclones or revolving storms.

68. IN SEAMANSHIP.—In addition to the qualifications required for a Second Mate, a more extensive knowledge of seamanship will be required, as to shifting large spars, rigging sheers, taking lower masts in and out, how to moor and unmoor ship and to keep a clear anchor, to carry out an anchor; how to manage a steam-ship in stormy weather, and how to rig purchases for getting heavy weights, anchors, machinery, &c., in and out. He must give satisfactory answers as to the ventilation of holds, and the stowage of explosives. He must be able to describe the effects of the screw race upon the rudder; and the effect produced on the direction of the head of the ship by going [ahead] [astern] with a [right] [left] handed screw when the rudder is [ported] [starboarded]. He must also know how to rig a sea anchor, and what means to apply to keep a steamer with machinery disabled out of the trough of the sea, and lessen her lee drift. How to turn a steam-ship short round; how to get cast of deep sea lead in heavy weather, and other questions of a like nature appertaining to the duties of an Only and First Mate of a steam-ship, which the Examiners may think necessary to put to him.

Master

69. A MASTER—Must be twenty-one years of age, and have been six years at sea, of which one year must have been as First or Only Mate in a Foreign-going Steam-ship, and one year as Second or Only Mate; or he must have been six and-a-half years at sea, of which two and-a-half years must have been as Second or Only Mate in a Foreign-going Steam-ship, during the last twelve months of which he must have been in possession of a First Mate's Certificate. See also paras. 11, 12 and 17.

* See Appendix B.
† See Appendix I.
‡ See Appendix F. Also page 24 foot-note ‡.

On and after the 1st June 1889, no candidate will be allowed to be examined unless he has served at sea two years within the last six years, and six months within the last three years immediately preceding the date of his application to be examined.

Any cases not coming within the above conditions must be submitted for the special consideration of the Government before the candidate is allowed to be examined.

70. In Navigation.—In addition to the qualification required for a Second, Only, and First Mate, he must be able to compute the latitude from the meridian altitude of a star, he must be able to find the magnetic bearing from equidistant compass bearings of any fixed object when at sea, and compute the deviation therefrom. He must construct a deviation curve upon a "Napier's" diagram which will be furnished by the Examiner, and understand the practical application of the same, and give satisfactory written (and oral) answers to certain practical questions on the effect of the ship's iron upon the compasses, the method of determining the deviation, and compensating same by magnets and soft iron.* He will be required to find the course to steer by compass in order to counteract the effect of a given current, and find the distance the ship will make good towards a given point in a certain time, and to work out practically the correction to apply to soundings taken at a given time and place, to compare with the depth marked on the chart.†

71. In Seamanship, &c.—In addition to the qualifications required of a Second, Only, and First Mate, he must be able to construct rafts and jury rudders suitable for a screw steam-ship. He will be examined as to his resources for the preservation of the ship's crew in the event of wreck; as to the management of steam-ships in heavy weather; as to rescuing the crew of a disabled ship; as to steps to be taken when a ship is on her beam ends; or if disabled and on a lee shore. How to use steam appliances in the event of fire, and the best arrangement for towing vessels under different circumstances, placing ship in dry dock, directing repairs, and the mode of procedure if putting into port in distress with damage to cargo and ship. He must possess a sufficient knowledge of what he is required to do by law, as to entry and discharge, and the management of his crew, and as to penalties and entries to be made in the official log, and a knowledge of the measures for preventing and checking the outbreak of scurvy on board ship, and the law as to load line marks, and the entries and reports to be made respecting them. He will be questioned as to his knowledge of invoices, charter-party, bills-of-lading, Lloyd's agent, and as to the nature of bottomry; also bills-of-exchange, surveys, averages, &c., and answer any other questions of a like nature, appertaining to the management of a steam-ship, which the Examiners may consider it necessary to touch upon.

Service in Royal Navy.

Service in Royal Navy.

72. Officers of the Royal Navy are at liberty to apply for Certificates of service and to be examined for Certificates of Competency in the Mercantile Marine, but they must submit their applications in the manner directed by the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty.

73 Officers of the Royal Navy desirous of being examined for Certificates of Competency in the Mercantile Marine will be required to prove the following service, of which twelve months must have been sea service under sail alone.

74. For Second Mate.—A Candidate must produce satisfactory evidence of four years' service at sea, or that he has attained the rank of acting Sub-Lieutenant.

75. For Only Mate.—A Candidate must prove five years' service at sea.

76. For First Mate or Masters.—A Candidate must show that he has attained the rank of Sub-Lieutenant, or Navigating Sub-Lieutenant.

Voluntary Examination in the Laws of the Deviation of the Compasses of Iron Ships.

Voluntary Examination of Masters and Mates in the Syllabus.

77. Any Master or Mate who wishes to pass a voluntary examination in the Syllabus* of examination on the Laws of the Deviation of the Compasses of an Iron Ship, &c., can at any time be examined upon filling up the form of application, and the payment to the Port Officer of the prescribed fee. If the candidate passes the examination successfully, an endorsement to that effect will be duly made upon the Master's or Mate's Certificate held by him.

Failure.

Re-examination in case of failure.

78. In all cases of failure the Candidate must be examined de novo. If a Candidate fails in Seamanship he will not be re-examined until after a lapse of SIX MONTHS. Whether the whole or part of this period must be served at sea must depend upon the subjects in Seamanship in which the Candidate failed, but what amount (if any) of sea service will be required will be left to the discretion of the Port Officer, subject, however, to revision by the Government, should they see fit.

---

* See Appendix H.

79. The Examiners in making out their report on Form Exn. 14 should state what amount (if any) of further sea service the Candidate must perform, and they should also insert this information under Division II. in Form Exn. 2.*

80. If he fails three times in Navigation he will not be re-examined until after a lapse of THREE MONTHS from the date of the last failure.

Certificate of lower grade.

81. If a Candidate has failed in his Examination, but the subjects in which he has failed are not included in the subjects required for a Certificate of a lower grade, he may, if he desires it, receive a Certificate of such lower grade.

82. No part, however, of the fee he has paid will be returned to him, and on presenting himself, when entitled, for re-examination for the higher grade of Certificate he will be required to pay a further full fee.

83. If a Candidate fails for bad spelling or writing, he will not be re-examined until after a lapse of at least three months.

84. If a Candidate fails in his examination for an ordinary Certificate, he may, if qualified, and upon payment of another fee, &c., be examined for a Certificate of Competency for Foreign-going Steam-ships without waiting the usual time after failure.

Fees.

85. Candidates for examination, in making their application on Form Exn. 2, will be required to pay the examination fee before any step is taken, whether by enquiring into their services or testing their qualifications, &c. Should it be found that their service is not sufficient to entitle them to be examined, or should their testimonials be unsatisfactory, or should they from any other cause, except failure to pass the colour tests, not be examined, no part of the fee will be returned to them, but when they have fulfilled the requisite service, or are able to produce satisfactory testimonials, as the case may be, they will be allowed to again present themselves for examination for a Certificate of the same grade without paying any further fee.

Fees to be paid by applicants for examination s. 133

86. The fee for examination must be paid to the Port Officer. In any case in which a Candidate offers money to any other officer, and in any place but in the Port office, the Candidate so offering money will be regarded as having committed an act of misconduct, and will be rejected, and not allowed to be again examined for twelve months.

87. If a Candidate fail in his examination no part of the fee will be returned to him.

General.

89. Certificates of Competency shall be made and issued by the Government in the forms hereunto annexed.

90. Every Certificate of Competency shall be made in duplicate, and one copy shall be delivered to the person entitled to the Certificate and the other shall be kept and recorded by the Port Officer of Calcutta.

General Instructions to Examiners and Candidates.

91. All instruments necessary for use in the examinatio ns are supplied by the Government.

Prohibited books and papers.

92. Before commencing the examination, the tables or desks must be cleared of all scraps of paper, or books that are not used in the examination, and care should be taken that the candidates do not bring into the examination room any book, paper, document, or memoranda of any description whatever. No person whatever should be allowed in the room during the time of examination, but those whose duties require them to be present.

93. No instructors will be allowed on the premises.

94. Candidates will under no pretence whatever be allowed to leave the premises while the examination is proceeding. If a Candidate has occasion to visit the retiring room he will only be allowed to do so on the completion of the paper on which he may be engaged, when he will be required to enter in a book, kept for the purpose, the exact time of his leaving and returning to the examination room. When only a few Candidates are under examination, two persons will not be allowed to leave the room at the same time.

Candidates not to leave premises during examination.

95. Candidates should be so placed as to prevent one copying from the other, and no communication whatever between the Candidates should be allowed.

Position of Candidates at examination.

96. If any blotting paper is allowed it should be black; and when the first examination paper is issued each Candidate should be furnished with a piece which should be returned to the Examiner upon the completion of the last paper.

Blotting paper.

97. The examination papers should be issued to the Candidates in half sheets only, and one at a time. This will prevent a Candidate from spreading out the sheets on the table in an apparently careless manner, but so as to enable his nearest neighbour to look over and copy, or examine the problems. It will also enable the Examiner to look over and report upon the work on one half sheet, while the Candidate is at work upon another, and so on. When the errors are not too numerous, or when they are not from ignorance of the subject, the incorrect problems may be returned to the Candidate for correction, but in no case should the errors be pointed out by the Examiner, neither should any marks be made on the correct work of the problem, which would at once indicate how far or to what extent the work is correct. Should the problems be returned to the Examiner the second time incorrect, this would be a failure; and as the time allowed is considered ample for working out the papers carefully, this rule is expected to be strictly observed.

How examination papers should be issued.

98. When from the large number of the Candidates, it may be found impossible to look over the work, on the day of examination during the office hours, an hour in the morning of the following day may be allotted for the purpose of correcting the problems, but in no case should a Candidate have his problem returned to him for correction after he has made the second attempt.

In certain cases problems may be corrected on morning following examination day.

99. The paper (Exn. 4A) is only for those Candidates who present themselves for examination for the first time. It is intended not only to ensure on the part of the Candidate a knowledge of the meaning of a variety of terms of great use to the Navigator respecting which much ignorance exists at present, but at the same time to test his handwriting and spelling.

100. In using this paper, the Examiner will place a mark against the numbers of the particular questions which he selects for answers, and not less than ten questions should be selected. The Candidate will then write against the questions so marked his definition of the terms in a clear and legible hand, so as to prevent the possibility of any letter being mistaken. Attention should be paid to the spelling and writing of all grades of Candidates. The supplementary vivâ voce test should also be applied as usual.

Re questions on Deviation of the Compass. (Exn. 7. Appendix G.)

101. In the questions on Deviation of the Compass (Exn. 7, Appendix G) the Examiner should indicate by a mark against at least twelve of the questions for answers, and those indicated must be correctly answered. The selected questions should be varied frequently, and no two Candidates should have precisely the same questions. The Candidate should be furnished with sheets of blank ruled paper which is supplied for that purpose with instructions that he is to write only on one side of the paper, and to answer each of the questions against which a mark is placed in a clear and legible hand, and to commence each answer by writing down the number of the question to which it relates in the margin left for that purpose. In answering question 19, besides giving a full explanation in writing, of the tentative method* of compass adjustment (accompanied by the usual supplementary vivâ voce test), the Candidates should be required to illustrate by diagrams how the poles of the magnets are placed with regard to the compass needle for correcting the semi-circular deviation, as well as the heeling error, and also how the soft iron should be placed for correcting the quadrantal deviation, or the Candidate may be tested by "Beall's Compass Deviascope," in which case it will not be necessary for him to give the written answer and sketches.

Vivâ voce examination.

102. In the vivâ voce examination a reasonable time should be allowed for the Candidate to give his answers. No assistance should be given or leading question put.

Adjustment of sextant

103. Particular attention should be paid to the adjustments of the sextant, and the written answers should be given on the ruled paper in the same manner as the answers to the questions on Exn. 7, and the supplementary vivâ voce test applied as usual. Every Candidate should have a practical knowledge of what is known as the first three adjustments, and be able to read correctly off the arc, a supposed index error to be given by the Examiner as additive, as well as reading on the arc in the usual way.

* See Appendix M.

104. All outstanding or minor corrections should appear in the margin of each problem paper; also on the chart papers Exn. 9C and Exn. 9D; and unless all these corrections appear on the papers of the Candidate they will not be considered complete.

Minor corrections.

105. In every case the Examination, whether for Only Mate, First Mate, or Master, is to commence with the problems for Second Mate.

Examination to commence with that for Second Mate.

106. Examiners should bear in mind that the problems to be performed are required as tests, and for the purposes of an Examination, and not for sea-going or practical purposes alone.

Problems required as tests.

107. The Candidates will be allowed to work out the various problems according to the method and the tables they have been accustomed to use.

Time allowed for Problems and Writings.

108. Candidates for Second Mates' Certificates of Competency must complete the whole of their Examination in Navigation in eight hours, including the time allowed for writing the definitions (Exn. 4*a*), the paper on the adjustment of the sextant, and the correction of all errors and oversights; but the nautical problems on Forms "Exn. 4" and "Exn. 5" must be completed within six hours, and without the Candidates leaving the premises during that period.

Time allowed for working problems.

109. Candidates for Only and First Mates' Certificates must complete the whole of their examination in Navigation in twelve and-a-half hours,* including the time allowed for the papers on the sextant; the chart; cyclones or revolving storms; and for the correction of all errors and oversights; but the nautical problems on Forms "Exn. 4," "Exn. 5," and "Exn. 6" must be completed within six hours, and without the Candidates leaving the premises during that period.

110. Candidates for Certificates as Masters,' Ordinary, must complete the whole of their examination in Navigation in fifteen hours; including the time allowed for the papers on the sextant; the chart; compass deviation; cyclones or revolving storms; and for the correction of all errors and oversights; but the problems on Forms "Exn. 4," "Exn. 5," and "Exn. 6," must be completed within six hours, and without the Candidates leaving the premises during that period.

111. Candidates after finishing the problems required of the respective grades on the first day of examination should proceed, until the end of that day, with such subjects as the definitions, sextant, chart, and Question 19 of Form "Exn. 7."

* A Candidate other than Second Mate who may not previously have passed an examination may be allowed the time occupied in writing his definitions on Exn. 4*a*, in addition to the above.

112. The Sumner Problem (Exn. 6a) must on no account be given out to any of the grades on the first day of the examination, but should be the commencement of the Candidate's work on the second day, and on completion of this problem the Candidates for Masters' Certificates should proceed with the problems on paper "Exn. 7."

113. Candidates for Foreign-going Steam-ship Certificates of Competency will be allowed the same amount of time to perform their navigation, &c., as hereinbefore laid down for the respective grades for the Ordinary Foreign-going Certificates.

114. Deviation of the Compass.—A period not exceeding eleven hours will be allowed to Candidates for the completion of the whole of the examination in the Syllabus, including the correction of all errors and oversights in both the problems and writings.

Additional time allowed in special cases.

115. Punctually at the expiration of the prescribed time all the papers should be called up, whether completed or not, and if not completed, the Candidate will be declared to have failed, unless the Port Officer or the Examiner see fit to lengthen the period in any special case If, however, the period is lengthened in any case, the special circumstances of that case, and the reasons for lenthening the period, together with the time allowed, must be reported to the Government by the Examiners, in the column for "remarks" on the Form Exn. 14. It should be noted that the periods prescribed in the foregoing paragraphs are not intended to include the time occupied by the vivâ voce part of the examination.

116. It is anticipated that but few of the Candidates for Certificates of Competency for any of the foregoing grades will require the whole of the time herein allowed for completing their Examination in Navigation; and ample time has been prescribed, so that Candidates may perform their work in a careful, clear, and legible manner, and to the entire satisfaction of the Examiners.

Degree of Precision required in the Solution of the Problems.

117. In order to prevent any misapprehension as to the degree of precision required by the Regulations in working out the various problems in the Examinations for Masters' and Mates' Certificates, the attention of Examiners and Candidates is particularly directed to the following Instructions:—

(a.) Candidates are expected to work out their answers to all problems within or not to exceed a margin of one mile of position from a correct result (e.g., in problems where the answer required is a latitude, longitude, or distance), excepting in finding the ship's position by "Sumner's" method, where a margin of 2½ miles will be allowed.

(b.) In such problems as the "Amplitude" and "Alt-Azimuth," where the bearings, deviations, &c., only are required, a margin of 2′, or 3′, from a correct result will be sufficiently accurate.

(c.) In no problem is the Candidate for an "ordinary" Certificate required by the Regulations to correct for second differences in taking out the quantities from the Nautical Almanac.

(d.) In solving the "Time Azimuth" problem, an answer not exceeding half a degree from the exact result will be sufficiently near. But in all cases the actual latitude, declination, and time used, together with the exact bearing (from the North or South) as given in the tables, must be clearly shown by the Candidate on his papers.

(e.) In interpolating for the correct deviation to be applied in solving the Chart question, Papers "Exn. 9 C." and "Exn. 9 D," it will usually be sufficiently near if the Candidate works throughout with the nearest degree of deviation taken from the "Deviation Card," and even in cases where the deviations may vary but little, the nearest half degree used throughout will be sufficiently precise, and will at the same time prove whether the Candidate understands the method of arriving at the amount of, and applying, deviations. It is not necessary that the Candidate should waste his time in solving the course to odd minutes as is sometimes done.

(f.) In calculating the correction to apply to the Soundings, Question 5 of Paper "Exn. 9 D," the Candidate is not required to work out to the exact inch, as is sometimes done. It will be sufficiently near if he brings his answer within half a foot or so of a precise result.

It must be clearly understood in reading the foregoing Instructions that it is always provided the work of the Candidate is correct in principle.

Supplementary vivâ voce Examination on written Papers.

118. An impression prevails in regard to the examination of Masters and Mates, that so long as a Candidate can commit to paper correct answers to the various questions requiring written answers (e.g., Forms Exn. 4*a*, Exn. 7, Exn. 9*a*, Exn. 9*c*, Exn. 32, 70, &c.), no matter how indicative the answers may be of their having been learnt off by rote only, the duty and responsibility of the Examiners are at an end, and that they have no power or authority to reject a Candidate should his written answers be correct.

119. Lest, therefore, such an impression should prevail, Candidates for Certificates of Competency should bear in mind that they are not only expected to give correct written answers, which may merely be learnt off by rote, but they are expected to possess an intelligent knowledge of the various subjects prescibed in the Regulations, particularly as regards the important subject of the Deviation of the Compass.

120. This result may be easily attained by the Examiner putting a few vivâ voce questions to the Candidate as the papers are brought up for inspection, or at any subsequent time if more convenient. The oral questions (suggested by the printed questions and the answers given) should be such that the Examiner may satisfy himself that the candidate possesses a real knowledge of what he has written, and should be confined strictly to the subjects of the printed questions. Should the candidate then exhibit ignorance of the subjects, the Examiner (who is in a position to judge of the real knowledge the man before him possesses) should deal with him at his discretion, notwithstanding that the candidate may have written all the answers correctly by rote.

121. When an Examiner finds it necessary to fail a Candidate in this supplementary vivâ voce test, a memorandum containing the particulars of the points on which the candidate was ignorant, i.e., the identical questions and the identical answers given, must in each case be attached to his examination papers, when forwarded in the usual course to the Port Officer, or the particulars may be set forth by the Examiner in the margins of the candidate's papers in red ink.

Form Exn. 16. Completion of examination.

122. If the Candidate passes, he will receive the Form Exn. 16, upon which the Government, will issue the Certificate to the candidate, whose testimonials, &c., will be returned at the same time.

Special Notice to Candidates.

123. The attention of Candidates is specially called to the following Regulations :—

124. Candidates are required to appear at the examination-room punctually at the time appointed.

125. Candidates are prohibited from bringing into the examination-room books, paper, or memoranda of any kind whatever. The slightest infringement of this regulation will subject the offender to all the penalties of a failure, and he will not be allowed to present himself for re-examination for a period of three months.

126. In the event of any Candidate being detected in defacing, blotting, writing in, or otherwise injuring any book or books belonging to the Government, the papers of such Candidate will be detained until the book or books so defaced be replaced by him. He will not, however, be at liberty to remove the damaged book, which will still remain the property of the Government.

127. In the event of any Candidate being discovered referring to any book or memoranda. copying from another, or affording any assistance or giving any information to another, or communicating in any way with another, during the time of examination or copying any part of the problems for the purpose of taking out of the Examination rooms, he will subject himself to all the penalties of a failure, and he will not be allowed to be examined for a period of six months.

128. No Candidate will be allowed to work out his problems on a slate or on waste paper.

129. No Candidate will be permitted to leave the room until he has given up the paper on which he is engaged.

130. Candidates will find it more convenient, both here and at sea, to correct the declination and other elements from the Nautical Almanac by the "hourly differences," which have been given in that work in order to facilitate such calculations; they will thereby render themselves independent of any proportional or logarithmic table for such purpose.

131. The corrections by inspection from tables given in some of the works on Navigation will not be allowed (see Tables IX, XI and XXI in Norie's Epitome, &c.); every correction must appear on the papers of the Candidates.

132. Any candidate who may be guilty of insolence to the Examiner or of other misconduct will render himself liable to the postponement of his examination, or, if he has passed, to the detention of his Certificate for such period as the Government may direct.

133. For rules as to amount of time allowed to perform the work, see page 36.

Masters' and Mates' Voluntary Examinations in Steam.

Voluntary Examinations in Steam.

134. These examinations are limited to Masters and First or Only Mates who are possessed of or entitled to Certificates of Competency, and are provided for the purpose of giving them an opportunity of undergoing a voluntary examination as to their practical knowledge of the use and working of the steam engine. They are conducted under the superintendence of the Port Officer at such times as they may appoint for the purpose; and the Examiners are selected by the Government from the Engineer-Surveyors appointed under the Indian Steam Ships Act, 1884.

Application, how to be made. Exn. 2

135. Any Master or Mate desiring to be examined in Steam must deliver to the Port Officer a statement in writing to that effect, upon the Form of Application (Exn. 2.), and the applicant's Certificate of Competency must be delivered to the Port Officer along with his statement. If he is about to pass an examination for a Certificate of Competency at the same time, the applications should be sent in together.
